Astronauts relaxed as countdown ticks

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 8 astronauts found time to relax with their wives and do some jogging Wednesday, after getting an okay from the weatherman to take off Saturday for a 10-orbit flight around the moon.

Technicians at the launch pad successfully completed extensive systems tests on all three stages of Apollo 8's 363-foot-tall Saturn 5 rocket, as the countdown continued smoothly toward a 7:51 a.m. EST blastoff Saturday.

Marilyn Lovell, wife of astronaut James A. Lovell Jr., and the couple's four children arrived in the Cape Kennedy area Wednesday afternoon. With them was Valerie Anders, wife of Lovell's copilot, William A. Anders.

"I'm excited about the flight and looking forward to it," Mrs. Lovell said. "I think it's a fascinating thing."

Space agency officials said Mrs. Anders planned to return to the couple's Houston, Tex., home today after seeing her husband Wednesday evening. Mrs. Lovell plans to view the launching from Cape Kennedy with the Lovell children, Barbara, 15; James, 13; Susan, 10, and Jeffrey, 2.

Apollo 8 commander Frank Borman, meanwhile, found time to jog around crew quarters at the moonport. His wife and family did not plan to come to Cape Kennedy before the launching, officials said.

The three astronauts spent much of the day in a spacecraft trainer to practice moves they will make during the liftoff. "I don't really have any great apprehension about the Saturn 5," Lovell said. "I have all the confidence in the world."

"That booster is either going to go or it's not going to go, and if it doesn't go, you've got a set pattern to get out of it. I mean, you're going to abort. That part of the launch is really anti-climatic for me."

Sherman Kline

Berserk father kills wife, three others

CARLINVILLE, Ill. (AP) — A father went berserk during a Christmas party for his children at a welfare agency Wednesday, opening fire with two pistols and killed four persons including his estranged wife. He wounded four of his children, two critically.

Sherman Kline, 38, then drove about 60 miles to a brother's home, and the brother said he admitted the shootings. Kline rejected pleas that he turn himself in, ran from the house into some woods and shot himself.

Kline was in serious condition with a wound in the left side of his head.

Only the wounded children witnessed the shootings, and the motive was not immediately known.

Killed in addition to Mrs. Lorraine Kline were social workers Frank Wildgrube, 25, and Mrs. Bernice Abbrach, 23, both of Carlville, and receptionist Ann Keppler, 25, Bend, Ill.

Wounded critically were Michael Kline, 14, and his sister, Diane, 8. Hurt seriously were Gene Kline, 18, and Judy, 10. The shootings occurred in the offices of the Illinois Department of Child and Family Services, where social workers had arranged a Christmas party for six of the 10 Kline children.

Carlville Police Chief Robert Stratton said the agency had brought the children together from six foster homes where they had been living since Kline and his wife separated in May. Both the parents had brought presents to the party, he said.

But during opening of the gifts, Stratton said, Kline suddenly pulled out two small-caliber pistols and began shooting. The chief said Kline apparently shot the children first, then Mrs. Kline, 33, and the three employees.

The Klines separated, Stratton said, after Kline's conviction for assault on Wildgrube, one of the social workers, killed Wednesday.

Kline was sentenced to two years in the assault case, Stratton said, but was released after serving several months.

The Klines had four other children in addition to those attending the party. Three have been legally adopted and a 15-year-old daughter, Linda, is married, the chief said. Kline drove to the home of his brother, Vernon, west of O'Fallon, Mo., and told his brother about the shooting. After the brother was unable to convince him he should surrender and Kline ran into the woods and fired a shot, the brother telephoned authorities.

Mohawk tribe blocks span over old treaty violation

MASSENA, N.Y. (AP) — Unarmed Canadian police Wednesday arrested 48 Mohawk Indians who formed a human wall and blocked the international bridge linking Canada and the United States.

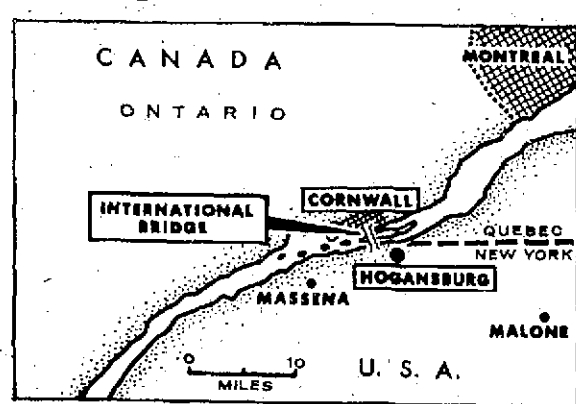

The Indian uprising was in protest of Canada's alleged failure to live up to the 1794 Jay Treaty.

The Mohawks, numbering about 100, had blocked the bridge with 25 automobiles. Indian men, women and children threw their bodies in front of tow trucks sent to clear away the wall of Mohawks and cars.

There were no reports of injuries.

The Mohawks were up in arms over Canada's insistence on collecting customs duties from the Mohawk traveling to and from their reservation on the bridge. The Mohawks contend the bridge is reservation territory.

The demonstrators carried signs that read: "This is an Indian Reservation, No Trespassing," as they confronted police from Cornwall Island, Ontario State Police.

Almost like cowboys and Indians

The Indians hold that the Jay Treaty of 1794—signed by Chief Justice John Jay as a special emissary to negotiate a treaty with Britain—guaranteed the Mohawks the right to travel unhampered from both countries.

The Mohawks had sent a telegram to England's Queen Elizabeth, protesting the Canadian posture on collecting customs duties.

New York State Troopers shunted traffic away from the bridge on the American side during the morning. Protest spokesmen pledged to turn out 2,000 Mohawks for a similar blockade today. There are some 6,000 Indians on the sprawling reservation, split about evenly between the American and Canadian sides of the border.

RMN acts to stop increase

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect Nixon acted Wednesday to dampen speculation about the future price of gold, assigning a spokesman to announce that he does not anticipate any shift from the current $35 an ounce.

That statement was supplied as an antidote to soaring gold prices in European markets after David M. Kennedy, the Chicago banker who will be Nixon's secretary of the Treasury, declined to pledge defense of the $35 rate.

It was a chain reaction instructive in the hazards facing an administration poised for office but not yet in charge.

Nixon has instructed his Cabinet selectees to follow his own rule and make no policy statements until the Jan. 20 inauguration.

Kennedy held a news conference Tuesday in Washington and seemed to be trying to follow the rule. "I think it's a wait-and-see period for a few months," he said. But Kennedy also said he wanted to keep his options open and added that the gold price question would be looked into in the coming months.

European dealers took that as a hint that the Nixon administration might raise the official price of gold, thus devaluing the U.S. dollar.

That, in turn, produced a buying wave which sent gold prices to a six-month high.

The flurry produced by Kennedy's comments sent Ronald L. Ziegler, Nixon's press aide, to newsmen with this statement:

"The subject of any change in the price of gold has not been discussed and we do not anticipate any change in the price of gold or in Mr. Nixon's position."

Ziegler said he had conferred with Nixon on the statement and also had talked with Kennedy.

Nixon, on Oct. 26, said, "I see no need for a change in the price of gold."

Since his election he has declined to discuss the matter, in line with his speak-no-policy rule.

Ziegler said he saw no need for a clarification of Kennedy's remarks. "I am confirming what Mr. Kennedy said, that the subject has not been discussed," Ziegler said.

As a campaigner, Nixon said action should be deferred because of the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Chicago banker David M. Kennedy, right, Nixon's Secretary of Treasury, met Wednesday with outgoing Treasury Secretary Henry Fowler. They met in face of the gold issue in Europe. Gold is selling for more than $44 an ounce there while in the U.S. it remains at $35 an ounce. (UPI Telephoto)

South won't quit until Reds go home

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnam's foreign minister declared Wednesday night his government never will accept a cease-fire until the last North Vietnamese soldier returns to his own country.

In referring to the Paris peace talks, Foreign Minister

Tran Chanh Thanh outlined his government's position this way: "We ask for more than a cease-fire. We ask for the stopping of this war. A cease-fire must come after the end of aggression."

This tough stand collided with U.S. hopes for an agreement on a cease-fire early in the expanded peace talks.

To leave the North Vietnamese and their Viet Cong allies in present positions under an early cease-fire would undermine the Saigon government, Thanh said on a television program.

"After a short period of time," he continued, "they would strengthen their positions by concentrating their forces and infiltrating more men and weapons, and then they would attack us."

Thanh said the army is being strengthened "so that gradually the South Vietnamese armed forces can replace the American forces. We do not want to depend on allied forces forever and there is no allied force which can bear this burden forever."

If South Vietnam can be united, he added, "I am sure the Communists cannot take over our country and we can stand alone."

Shortly before Thanh spoke, his ministry issued a communique saying South Vietnam was willing to talk to North Vietnam about truces for Jan. 1 and Tet, the lunar new year Feb. 17. There seemed little likelihood Hanoi will reply.

The ministry said the government would never discuss this matter with the Viet Cong, which already has announced truces of three days each for Christmas, New Year's Day

President in hospital with flu

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson became a companion in misery of hundreds of thousands of other Americans Wednesday when he caught the flu and was put to bed at Bethesda Naval Hospital in suburban Maryland.

Johnson entered the hospital Wednesday morning with a fever of 101.6 degrees and a chest cold after what was described as several days in which he had not been feeling "up to par."

He was said to have a stuffy head, a running nose, a rasping cough, a slight sore throat and a hoarse voice.

It was not until five hours later, however, that White House press secretary Georgia Christian told newsmen the ailment could be called the flu.

Christian declined to identify the flu as any particular strain but said viral studies were being conducted.

In Phoenix, Ariz., Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey was suffering from the flu and canceled a speaking engagement in Los Angeles.

The hospital described Johnson's condition as satisfactory. Johnson was expected to remain in the hospital for several days but no firm date for his release was expected before today.

Dollar weakens in Europe

LONDON (AP) — the price of gold soared on European markets Wednesday on the belief of speculators that President-elect Nixon may raise the official U.S. price for the metal and thus effectively devalue the dollar.

The dollar weakened on all European exchanges except London where it rallied against the British pound from a lower opening.

The statement of Nixon's principal spokesman that the president-elect had not discussed and did not anticipate any changes in the price of $35 an ounce for gold came too late to have any influence on markets in Europe. Dealers wondered what its effect would be on dealings today.

The dramatic jump in bullion—up 80 cents to $42 an ounce in London—followed the refusal of David M. Kennedy, Nixon's designated Treasury secretary, to commit the new administration to the $35 price the United States has defended tenaciously since 1934.

The immediate reaction in Europe was that the secretary designate, as the London Times put it, had much to learn "about handling delicate issues at press conferences."

Officials of the Bank of England, noted for their light-tipped treatment of newsmen, were reported puzzled why Kennedy held his Washington news conference at all before he assumed responsibility for the U.S. economy.

Bullion closed in London at a flat $42 against Tuesday's closing $41.20. This was the highest level since $42.10 June 12. It was the biggest day-to-day jump since Oct. 7.

Gold rose 70 cents an ounce in Paris to $44.28. This compared with the record high July 5 of $45.36. In both Frankfurt and Zurich it was up 50 cents an ounce.

Girl snatched by three men

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A 16-year-old girl was missing Wednesday and police were looking for her and three men who reportedly took her at gunpoint about midmorning from her home in the modest suburb of Merriam, Kan.

Peggy Thurston disappeared with the men in what was described to police as an orange 1954 Chevrolet.

Police Chief Douglas Baines said in Merriam that the girl's 18-year-old sister, Ruth, told of the men—one of them a former boy friend of Peggy's—forcing their way into the home after the younger girl had first left to go to a nearby shopping center. Ruth said Peggy had returned, apparently after recognizing one of the men.

Nostock market on Wednesday

FBI arrests 32 in sale of Illinois Guard deferments

CHICAGO (AP) — The FBI arrested an Illinois National Guard captain, two sergeants and 29 other men Wednesday on charges of using false notices of membership in the guard to gain draft deferments.

An FBI spokesman, asked if there would be further action, replied simply: "We haven't stopped yet."

Brig. Gen. Richard T. Dunn, head of the Illinois National Guard, offered to help the government in any way he could.

He said that, when a man enlists in the guard, a form is sent to his draft board to show membership. The government, he added, alleges that such forms were used in this case.

Warrants had been issued for 27 men, accusing them of failing to report to their draft boards that they had not enlisted in the guard. These men range in age from 19 to 25. Most of them are single.

Eight other men were indicted by a federal grand jury in Chicago on charges operating a conspiracy.

Among the eight are Capt. Willus Everett Vivian, about 49, and Sgts. Willie Britton Jr., 37, and Ben L. Cleveland, 51, all fulltime employees of the Illinois National Guard.

Prior to Feb. 1, Gen. Dunn said, all were assigned to the Washington Park Armory on the South Side. He said Britton and Cleveland now work at the Chicago Avenue Armory on the near North Side.

The FBI said the alleged conspiracy involved spurious documents submitted to local draft boards indicating that various selective service registrants were members of the National Guard when, in fact, they were not.

U.S. lifts kennel tag

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) has suspended for 14 days the license of one of the nation's largest commercial kennels which supplies animals for research purposes.

Dierholt Farms, Inc., of Blairtown, Pa., was ordered by the USDA to begin its 14-day suspension Dec. 22.

Cheyney hearing judge asks speed

HARRISBURG (AP) — Judge Carl B. Shelley, a stickler for decorum, admonished counsel Wednesday to hurry along with the proceedings involving nine expelled students of Cheyney State College.

The hearing will not be in session today because of the judge's other court commitments. At one point, Judge Shelley told Cecil B. Moore, Philadelphia civil rights leader and counsel for the nine plaintiffs: "We're listening to a great deal here that isn't relevant. Now, let's get down to cases. We've allowed you broad scope."

The nine students brought suit against the college trustees, President Wade Wilson and the state Department of Public Instruction after their expulsion as the result of a tumultuous campus confrontation Nov. 20 between students and Cheyney officials.

Moore has made one of his key issues the contention that there was mistaken identity in at least one case involving the expulsions.

He brought to the stand Wednesday morning another of the expelled students, senior Gregory Harris, to testify about the Adger brothers.

Harris affirmed earlier testimony that Andre Adger was on the campus when the trouble in question occurred, but he was not expelled.

Instead, the witness said Renault Adger was expelled, although Harris said he only saw Renault in the dining hall briefly the evening of Nov. 20, the day the trouble occurred.

The predominantly Negro institution in Delaware County has been the scene of recurring strife for several weeks. Among other announced aims of the current law suit is a greater voice for students in the policies of the college.

There were few spectators Wednesday as interest in the proceedings waned. Judge Shelley moved the case back to his own smaller courtroom after holding original sessions in the larger Courtroom No. 1 to accommodate large numbers of spectators.

Legislators told new tax sources needed

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer told Democratic legislative leaders Wednesday that new taxes will be necessary in the fiscal year even if the state wishes to "hold the line" on present programs.

The governor held what one Democratic leader described as a "confidential briefing" on his proposed budget and, The Associated Press learned, told them it could run as high as $2.5 billion — an increase of 25 per cent over the current one.

But, said a Shafer aide who attended the briefing, "he told them the figures were not locked in cement" and could be revised before the official budget is presented next year.

Ways of financing the proposed increase in costs were not discussed, said Senate Minority Leader Ernest Kline, D-Beaver.

This was confirmed by House Speaker-designate Herbert Fineman, D-Philadelphia, who added, "an income tax is the only broad-based source of revenue left untapped."

At the same time, Fineman said House Democrats intended to stick by a declaration to fight any income tax until "loopholes for business" are closed in the current tax structure.

Earl D. Eisenhower

Attack fatal to brother of Ike

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Earl Eisenhower died Wednesday of a heart attack, the disease which has plagued his older brother since Dwight D. Eisenhower was president of the United States. He was 70.

The former president, convalescing at Walter Reed Army Hospital in Washington from his seventh heart attack, was described as "deeply grieved" by his younger brother's death.

Eisenhower, a former engineer and public relations director, suffered his first attack Monday. He died at 3:15 a.m. Wednesday at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Only three of the seven Eisenhower brothers now survive: the former president, Milton, a college president, and Edgar, a lawyer. Arthur died of a heart ailment in 1936, Roy in 1942 of an unknown cause and Paul in infancy.

After a brief fling at politics in Illinois, Eisenhower retired here in February, 1967. Golf and flower gardening were his main interests. He and his wife lived near their son, Earl Jr., who is with the management system of Motorola's Aerospace Center.

Now great grandma of 12

STONEBORO, Pa. (AP) — An 81-year-old woman, became a great grandmother three times in one day in three different hospitals.

The great grandchildren didn't come as a surprise but the timing did, Dora Reiser said Wednesday.

"I was just thrilled," she said. "There hadn't been a boy in my family for 19 years until yesterday."

Mrs. Reiser, a widow, said the babies are all healthy and weigh around eight to nine pounds.

Now a great grandmother of 12, Mrs. Reiser said the excitement didn't bother her. "It was just a surprise," she said.

Tobyhanna Village conditions

Housing report due January

WASHINGTON, D.C. — A formal report outlining the results of a top-level inspection conducted at the Tobyhanna Village Wherry Housing Project will be complete in mid-January.

A team of six high ranking military officials from

Washington, D.C. conducted a personal inspection tour of the 200 apartment federal housing project December 4.

The inspection team was authorized by the Secretary of the Army and headed by Richard Wolters, an officer for the Assistant Secretary of the Army.

Pentagon officials said this week that the report of the inspection will be completed sometime in mid-January.

The report would have been completed earlier, but the head of the inspection team is currently out of the country.

Wolters, at the time of the inspection, said the report, when complete, will be forwarded to Col. Paul R. Poulin, commander of Tobyhanna Army Depot, Col. Poulin, in turn, would then send the report to the Federal Housing Administration in Philadelphia.

Dr. Gabriel Elias, owner of the housing project, is under contract with the FHA. The federal agency leased the housing project to Dr. Elias in 1964.

Influenza outbreak stops party

NEWFOUNDLAND — A victim of the current influenza outbreak, the Tobyhanna-Newfoundland Lions Club's festive Christmas party at Holiday Hill Nursing Home, Newfoundland, has been cancelled.

The Lions had planned for music and gifts and candy at the gala party scheduled for the Sunday before Christmas. But officials at the Home, wary of the influenza bugs floating around, have asked that all such functions and visits be cancelled. So the Lions have put their candy in a safe place and will keep it until such time as the ban on parties at the Home is lifted.

Meanwhile, the Lions' plans for their own Christmas party are still very much on schedule, with the group meeting at Colonial Manor on December 21 for a dinner and entertainment.

Snow date—always an important part of every Pocono Mountain function — is December 22.

The Lions are headed by Joseph J. Rice, of Tobyhanna, this year.

County treasurer, surveyor law set

Record Harrisburg Bureau HARRISBURG — Two bills now signed into law by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, directly affect certain county officials of seventh class counties such as Monroe County and eighth class counties such as Pike County.

One bill applies to the county treasurer, authorizing him for the first time to succeed himself in that office. Stricken from the law is the proviso stating that "no county treasurer shall be eligible for the term next succeeding the one for which he may be elected."

Second measure signed into law pertaining to Monroe County and Pike County removes the county surveyor as a county officer and transfers his duties to the county engineer "shall perform all duties heretofore imposed on county surveyors" and that he shall "perform all duties relating to surveying as may be assigned to him by the county commissioners, or by law."

Another new law applicable to Monroe County and Pike County provides that the county auditor now shall be paid at the rate of $20 "for each six hours of work," plus ten cents per mile to and from their homes for each day so employed. Previously the $20 reimbursement for the county auditor read "for each day necessarily employed."

Barrett GOP elects new officers

CANADENSIS — The Barrett Republican Club recently held its election of officers for 1969 at Pine Knob Inn, Canadensis.

The club also held its Christmas party at the inn, where members exchanged gifts, and Mrs. Stanley Nauman, outgoing president, was presented an orchid and a charm by Mrs. Raymond Price and Mrs. John Sytk, on behalf of the club, in appreciation for her work as president.

Mrs. John Nauman entertained the group with Christmas carols.

Governor for Lions cites apathy

TANNERSVILLE — District Governor Dwight M. Stine, Tower City, was the featured speaker during a recent meeting of the Tannersville Lions Club in the Coral Reef Hotel, Tannersville.

Stine urged that local Lions take part in local and district projects.

He complained that apathy is taking over in America. He challenged members to be men of good will and help in the search for international peace.

Other guests included Deputy District Governor Dominic A. Sabatino, Roseto, and R.V. Kresge, West End Lions Club.

GI's unusual Yule present

NEWFOUNDLAND — ROM John Gearhart, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Gearhart of South Sterling, arrived home unexpectedly this week from Vietnam on a 14-day leave.

The local serviceman enlisted in the Seabees in June, 1966, after graduation from Wallenpaupack Area Joint High School.

ley Parents-Teachers Association. All ornaments were hand-made by pupils from kindergarten to sixth grade levels. Also helping was Jim Taylor. (Staff Photo by F. Walter)

700 pupils exhibit

Expo '68, a parent Christmas treat

BRODHEADSVILLE — Parents and teachers of Pleasant Valley School district were overwhelmed by a holiday exposition of gifts and ornaments created by the more than 700 elementary pupils for their parents and teachers.

The display of arts and crafts of all sorts and shapes and colors was part of the "Christmas in the Classroom" program open to the public Wednesday night in the Chestnut Hill school.

Projects from 24 classrooms, from kindergarten to sixth grade levels were put on view to be admired and later to be taken home by the young artists.

Items reflected a variety of ideas and schemes from usually discarded household items such as empty cans, boxes, bottles, hand-painted, shaped, assembled and transformed into fascinating objects for table arrangements, wall decorations and Christmas tree ornaments.

Senior class sets Christmas dance

PEN ARGYL — The senior class at Pen-Argyl Area High School will hold a Christmas dance from 8 p.m. until 11 p.m. December 28 in the gymnasium. Theme of the dance is "Snowflake Folly with Mistletoe and Holly."

Ideas were expanded to other national Christmas ideas such as a Spanish "pinata" to be suspended in mid-air and exploded into a brilliantly festive experience.

Elementary groups from each of the schools, including Polk, Eldred and Chestnut Hill gathered to light and decorate their own trees with their own hand-made ornaments.

George Andrusin, elementary supervising principal said this was the first year for the children to assume such a project and said he was well proud of their ambitious creations.

Reservists will train in Tobyhanna

TOBYHANNA — The year 1969 will bring a record number of reservists to Tobyhanna Army Depot for active duty training.

Scheduled are some 2,800 men from Army and National Guard units in six states.

The period of training will begin earlier than usual, May 3, and run through Sept. 6.

States to be represented are Maryland, Kentucky, New York, Vermont, Massachusetts and Pennsylvania. In previous years, most of the reservists came from the deep South.

A "tent city" will go up in April to house the troops during their two-week stay at the depot.

Capt. Spencer Johnson, plans and training officer, is in charge of the program.

Area milk production record set

KRESGEVILLE — A report of milk production levels attained by dairy cows in the area has been received from Holstein-Friesian Association of America. The actual food production output, under official DHIR testing rules, by these local Registered Holsteins is:

Milky-Dell, Pistar Bonni, a five-year-old, produced 21,060 pounds of milk and 875 pounds of butterfat in 305 days.

Milky-Dell Atstar Toots, a four-year-old, had 16,630 pounds of milk and 783 pounds of butterfat in 305 days. Both are owned by Donald Metzler, Milky Dell Farm, Kresgeville.

These new production figures may be compared to the estimated annual output of 8,513 pounds (3,558 quarts) of milk and 315 pounds of butterfat by the average U.S. dairy cow, notes the National Holstein Association.

Pennsylvania State University supervised the sampling, weighing and testing operations in cooperation with the Holstein Association through breed improvement programs.

The United States Supreme Court Monday ruled that draft boards don't have the power to punish Vietnam war protesters by mustering them into the Army.

This test case became a reality after a Cheyenne, Wyoming draft board reclassified divinity student James J. Oestreich 1A after he turned in his draft card in protest of the United States war policy in Vietnam.

We agree with the 6-3 decision handed down by the highest court in the land. But, we also warn that it may have sparked a new wave of protest and deliberate destruction of draft cards.

Although the court has ruled only in cases where individuals are exempt through federal law, it may have opened new avenues of protest, by which the United States, its war efforts and our servicemen in action may be ridiculed anew.

It is now the duty of the court to explain carefully its latest decision and to even more carefully make known the possible penalty for those who openly refuse to accept induction.

The court gave a measure of protection to draft boards throughout the country by upholding a law which forbids most draftees going to court to challenge their classifications.

These new rulings and the manner in which they limit draft boards and inductees alike should be explained to the public. These rulings should become information readily available at the draft board.

The supreme court is obligated to protect the rights of individuals in the service or about to enter the service, not only those objecting to entering service or protesting Uncle Sam's warfare in Vietnam.

Draft boards can't lose all their strength and still do the job. Individuals who make up our draft boards are also entitled to a certain amount of protection.

Laws made or upheld in conjunction with selective service should be carefully and patiently explained.

Wage increases needed

Pennsylvania's decision to present its 106,000 employees a 10 per cent wage increase should meet with approval.

This increase, suggested by Gov. Raymond P. Shafer, is the first general raise since Jan. 1, 1967.

It is a necessary step to maintain a higher calibre of individual in state service and to protect the Commonwealth against raids by private industry with better payrolls.

According to an announcement from Harrisburg, the proposed salary increase would amount to $76 million, of which $49.5 million will come from the general fund. The remainder will be used from special funds.

This increase would be in addition to the five per cent "merit pay" increments that virtually all state employees receive for good performances.

Although this is the first general salary increase planned since Jan. 1, 1967, the cost of living has risen seven per cent during the same period of time. The new salary scale would be effective as of July 1 of next year.

State governments are forced to at least attempt to keep step with private industry in order to maintain a high level of worker on the state level and insure better government.

In recent years the state hasn't been faced only with the problem of attracting capable individuals into its employment. It has also been facing the tremendous task of keeping its employment ranks intact and maintaining a level of employment that will guarantee a higher calibre of service to the public.

Adequate salaries must be paid to good employees.

Updating the news: Americans will get to the moon first and discover it's covered with crabgrass.

Sen. Edward Kennedy likes to tell a story about the time he was touring a factory. One of the blue-collar workers came up to him, shook his hand and said, "Senator, I understand you've never worked a day in your life. Let me tell you, you haven't missed a thing!"

Comes the story about the fellow who was sitting in front of his television set watching a speech by George Wallace.

"What do you think of him?" the fellow's wife asked.

"I agree with everything he says," replied the fellow. "He feels just like I do about damn near everything."

"Are you going to vote for him?"

"Hell, no. I said he's just like me and I know I'm not fit to be president."

Frost has practically nothing to do with the turning of the leaves. It is purely the result of chemical changes in the cells of the leaf which result in a diminishment of the chlorophyll caused by cool nights and lack of sunshine and many other technical factors which I do not understand. The leaves eventually turn brown which is a sign that they are dead. Why they fall on our lawn is not known.

Letter to Santa

WASHINGTON — It is time for my annual letter to Santa Claus. In this case, I mean the real Santa, not the pseudo one otherwise known as the United States government.

One of the traditions of the Christmas season is that people write to Santa and ask for things, instead of to the government. All year long the government is pestered for grants, presents, handouts and goodies and it comes as a welcome relief to shift the burden briefly onto the broad shoulders in the bright red suit.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit and obeying my own humanitarian instincts, in my letter to Santa I ask for very little for myself. Mostly my letter is a plea to Santa to bestow various gifts on my friends, acquaintances and enemies.

Dear Santa: How are you? I am fine. I have been a good boy all year and if you could see your way clear to deliver the following list of presents on Christmas night, I'll try to get you a Federal appointment. Perhaps I can get Nixon to make you a postmaster at the North Pole. It should pay about $12,500 annually.

List of requests

Very well, then, here's my list: Please give an Ey Diskson record album to Arthur Schlesinger Jr. When you get to Bill Manchester's house, pick up a copy of his book the Krupp family and leave in his stocking a jeweled Iron Cross (or the Blue Max, if you have one).

I'd like Zsa Zsa Gabor to get a complete set of hotel towels from the country of her choice, and Gen. Curtis LeMay deserves a box of exploding cigars. Al Gov. George Romney's home drop off a carton of new, extra-strength detergent, so his brainwashing can be brighter than white.

Send Richard Nixon some men, who are stouthearted men, who will fight for the right they adore. Give Sen. Wayne Morse a horse of another color and one that will not kick him in the head. (And, Santa, all I want you to give Sen. Robert Packwood is a square count in Oregon, if that's possible.)

Under Mayor Richard Daley's tree leave some stuffed toys and ballot boxes (also stuffed) and at Hubert Humphrey's house drop, Sen. Eugene McCarthy down the chimney. George Wallace should get a mirror for the wall, which will tell him who's the fairest one of all.

Have I forgotten anyone? Oh, yes, give Ho Chi Minh some curlers for his chin whiskers and give Spiro Agnew a life-size statue of a fat Jap that shines in the dark. Thank you, Santa. — Your friend, Donny MacLean.

Against procedure used

Editor, The Record:

The Pocono Record appears to have again provided an excellent factual account of a county commissioners meeting. For Thursday's meeting, Record readers got a good insight into the abilities and attitudes of the three commissioners.

What was properly left for the readers to judge is whether the commissioners are going to give us good government. The news account of this latest meeting certainly leaves doubt.

For example, the process of selecting a county clerk seems a simple enough task. Yet parliamentary procedure was abrogated and double talk seemed to have replaced basic honest expression.

How come? Has a sort of credibility gap developed at the Court House?

Continued responsible reporting by the Record should serve, it is hoped, as a leveling influence by informing the people of all the proceedings at these meetings — including such goings on as Thursday's doomybrook.

Praise for firemen

Editor, The Record:

I would like to publicly commend the West End Fire Company in so skillfully containing the fire on the property of Harry Weiss in Brodheadsville.

My father would have lost everything and many of the neighboring properties would no doubt have been lost, too, had they not responded so promptly and fought so capably.

Also to be commended are the people of the community who some years ago had the foresight to construct the large pond to the rear of the property. Without a supply of water the firemen would be helpless.

The people of Brodheadsville can be thankful for such a fine group of volunteers. Support them, you never know when you will need their help!

Test feeding halted

By DONALD R. LARRABEE

Record Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — After 10 years of experimentation, the Army has now halted its test-feeding of irradiated bacon and similarly preserved foodstuffs to a voluntary group of servicemen.

The Food and Drug Administration wants more proof that irradiated food is wholesome, microbiologically safe, free of toxicity and nutritionally adequate. The FDA's intervention has not only upset some well-laid plans of the Army and the Atomic Energy Commission but also has jolted segments of the private food industry with a sizeable investment in the field.

Members of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee were surprised, to say the least, last summer when the FDA questioned the wholesomeness of irradiated ham, bacon and other foods in the Army's test program.

"I've been eating that bacon since 1959," Rep. William H. Bales (R-Mass.) squealed. "We were told it was all right. Then we proceeded to eat it."

The Joint Committee has an annual meal of irradiated food as part of its efforts to keep up with progress at the Army's Natick (Mass.) laboratory. Some committee members naturally are having some second thoughts about what appeared to be a culinary delight at the time.

Near approval

As recently as 1966, during the committee hearings, it appeared that a number of beef, pork and fishery products might be on the way to approval by the Food and Drug Administration. The Army tests seemed conclusive. Since then, not a single food item has been approved for human consumption.

It was last April when the first signs of FDA resistance began to be manifest. The Army had asked for clearance of canned smoke-ham sterilization by gamma-ray treatment with Cobalt 60 or Cesium 137. It felt the method would help reduce canned ham spoilage in such tropical areas as Vietnam and that it would help improve the flavor.

Dr. James L. Goddard, who was FDA commissioner at the time, wrote a letter to the commander of the Natick laboratory, alleging that irradiated pork products might produce a

Muskie didn't lose

WASHINGTON — The same cheer which followed him throughout the presidential campaign is still in its afterglow: "We want Muskie!"

Whatever happens in national affairs in the next few years, there is evidence that a very large number of voters want Sen. Edmund Muskie of Maine to be in the middle of it.

They want him to be a strong force in the United States Senate.

They want him to be an influential voice in the shaping of the future of the Democratic Party.

Many hope he will run for president in 1972.

One clue to the remarkable empathy which Muskie as Hubert Humphrey's running mate built up with the American people during the campaign is the fantastic flow of letters about 80,000 already—which is continuing to inundate his office.

All parties

They come from Democrats, independents and Republicans. They come overwhelmingly from young voters and still younger students who can vote four years from now or who will be old enough to ring doorbells for Muskie as many did for Eugene McCarthy and Robert Kennedy this year. They also come from senior citizens—one man 89 years old said he wanted to live long enough to vote for Muskie for president — and from college presidents, business executives and labor.

It is a remarkable outpouring of good will, admiration and, above all, trust. I doubt that any winning losing vice presidential nominee has ever received anything like it.

But there never was a presidential campaign quite like the one this fall in which the man in the second spot, virtually unknown outside of Maine and the senate when he was chosen, played such a significant role.

Muskie enabled Humphrey to carry Maine, but his Republican counterpart could not hold his state of Maryland for Richard Nixon.

After the voters came to realize what Humphrey had given to them in the person of his vice presidential candidate, they greeted him in ever larger number, and a Muskie rally became a local event, not just a political chore.

Unquestionably, Humphrey bore the heavy burden of a miasmic convention, a deeply divided party and truculent anti-Vietnam demonstrators, especially young people. He was the main target of their hostility and their violence.

But Muskie, in part perhaps because he was second man and perhaps because he was a fresh face and a new force in national politics, had unusual success in quieting and communicating with those who first thought they wanted to shout him down.

And they found after a while they didn't want to shout him down, and on some occasions, when the heckling threatened to break up a rally entirely, Muskie invited the spokesman of the hecklers to share his microphone on the premise he would listen to them if they would listen to him.

They did and, even if they didn't agree with what they heard, they respected the man they were listening to—and trusted him.

Theme of campaign

That was the theme of the Muskie campaign—the need, as he once remarked, "to inspire the American people to trust each other, to take chances on each other, to work with each other in order to do the things which must be done to heal the divisions among our people. There is no other way to do it but in the hearts and minds of Americans themselves."

He asked over and over again: "How can we make our democracy work without trust?" And it is apparent that he spoke of trust in a way which made a profound impression.

This was the bread he cast on the troubled campaign waters and it is now returning to him many-fold.

Obviously, there is no predicting what's next for this man, but my judgment is that we will be hearing from Muskie more and more and that he will turn aside nothing which will keep him in the mainstream of his party's future.

The Pennsylvania Story

Still to be heard

Mason Denison

HARRISBURG — Although Pennsylvania's Gov. Raymond P. Shafer falls into the theoretical classification of a "lame duck governor" with the beginning of the second half of his tenure next month, chances are good his "quacks" will still be fairly emphatic and meaningful — but how effective is something else.

This in itself is no particular switch from past custom where Keystone State chief executives in the twilight days of their administrations inevitably found themselves literally hollering in a closet with few paying any heed.

This somewhat demoralizing "custom" derives from the simple fact that Pennsylvania governors by constitutional decree have not been permitted to succeed themselves in office. Shafer is the last of the breed. Under a constitutional change now approved by the voters, his successors will have that option.

Understandably perhaps, the old proviso has been a breeding ground for gubernatorial frustrations, trips to the walling wall and similar expressions of exasperation.

Much of this of course stemmed from the fact that their power was on the wane — with only two years to go, what could a governor do other than ladle soup at gubernatorial balls?

The point to be made however is that governors in their first two years in office are considered to have a "long way to go" — that is, time is on their side during the period; four years, or three years, comprise a healthy span for recriminations against those who might buck a gubernatorial decree!

On the other hand, one or two years isn't very glowing. Pennsylvania's governors never have had the threat behind them of running for a consecutive term, which is why in the waning two years they usually follow Nero's pattern and fiddled (or laddled) soup.

In the first two years in office the Governor is the strong man insofar as his own party affairs are concerned.

He is the one for example who holds the upper hand on the state patronage bandwagon. He is the one who can effectively snap off the heads of balking politicians in more ways than one — in or out of the legislative branch.

This holds for about the first two years — and then it begins to sag. In the last half of an administration for example it is tougher to get responsible persons to take key, although top-paying, state posts. The time element is too short.

(Of course the exceptions in all these cases are the run of the mill political hacks ever ready to snap at any crumb — but these are not the "responsible persons" who today must be spotted through key slots.)

In a nutshell these are some of the reasons why a chief executive in Pennsylvania usually falls into the "lame duck" status in his declining two years.

Shafer is headed for the feather pile too — but there is a slight difference from the route followed by most of his predecessors.

In the first place he's managed to make a bit of a name for himself in the comparatively short time he has been nursing the gubernatorial vine vat — both in Pennsylvania and on the national scene insofar as GOP politics are concerned (perhaps more so in the latter category).

This, combined with the "inevitable" fact that there isn't too much left in Republican hands on Capitol Hill, places him in somewhat of a "last straw" category for hopeful Keystone State Republicans. (Democrats now control the two elective fiscal offices and half the legislative branch.)

In a nutshell then, there is little for them to turn to if they cast him aside completely in this upcoming lame duck period, as has been GOP procedure quite often in the past.

Stories Behind Words

By William Pentfield

BIZARRE

The word "bizarre," which we use to describe something that is oddly extravagant or fantastic, once had an entirely different meaning.

The Basques of northeast Spain called a beard by the name "bizar." A beard was a sign of masculinity, therefore, the word acquired the meaning of manly. "Bizar" became "bizarro" in Spanish, where, by extension, it gained the meaning of brave or gallant — qualities of manhood.

"Bizarro" entered French as "bizarre," where for a time it retained the meaning that it had in Spanish. But the extravagant dress and antics of such stage characters as the Three Musketeers led to the word's present meaning.

FDA becomes tough enemy for Army in war on food variety of adverse effects.

The FDA mentioned possible effects on the reproductive process, apparent production of anti-nutrient factors, apparent effects on mortality, body weight gain, red blood cell count and hemoglobin; and the possibility of increased risk of cataracts and tumors.

FDA officials documented their concern at a hearing last July. They said some laboratory animals fed irradiated meat had developed cancer and cataracts and that the reproduction rate of others had dropped. Dr. Goddard said the smoked ham review had raised questions about previously-approved regulations for irradiated food, such as bacon.

The Army feels that the questioning by FDA will wreck its timetable for submitting petitions for approval of a number of foods, including pork sausage, chicken, beef, hamburger, shrimp, codfish cakes and tuna.

Stricter interpretation

Dr. Edward Josephson, associate director for food radiation at Natick, suggested that the FDA had switched signals, that the agency had placed a stricter interpretation on experimental data which was originally accepted.

Dr. Josephson maintains that the Army program wouldn't have been carried through to its present state of development if anyone had questioned the safety of irradiation processing. And after five years of testing with soldier-volunteers, he says he is unaware of a single instance of anyone being adversely affected by bacon.

The Army thus stands by its test findings and believes it can prove to the FDA's satisfaction that irradiation-sterilized foods are wholesome. New test programs are now under way in hopes of resolving the key questions on the acceptability of radiated foods.

The Atomic Energy Commission takes the view that FDA's inability to conclude that irradiated foods are safe does not necessarily mean that they are harmful. The Joint Committee, whose members have been guinea pigs over a period of years, has not stopped sampling irradiated goodies but seems to favor a go-slow policy until the evidence is conclusive. A full congressional review is planned early in the new Congress.

Old-time caroling restored

POTTSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — A Jewish woman is chiefly responsible for adding the old-fashioned touch of caroling to Pottstown's Christmas season.

Each night from Thanksgiving to Christmas eve, carolers stroll through the business district singing the traditional holiday songs.

The project was launched by Mrs. Gertrude Kessler, a leader of a Pottstown synagogue. She says that although the Christmas story is incompatible to her faith, the spirit of the holiday is — and she refuses to ignore it.

Her idea for strolling carolers was born five years ago as she was recuperating from an illness. She listened to Christmas songs on the radio and wondered what happened to "good old time caroling."

"I was born and raised in a Jewish household," she said. "But we were always pleased when the carolers came to our door at Christmas."

Mrs. Kessler suggested the project to her son, Barry, then president of the Downtown Pottstown Business Association. He appointed her to organize the program.

There was some initial opposition, but critics didn't deter her.

"I didn't think the program was a compromise," she said. "My life as a Jew is very important to me. I don't believe in fake brotherhood or fellowship, but I think a good deal of good can result from interaction. That doesn't take away from anyone."

Although the first year the program had only a small acceptance by many churches, it was hailed by most townspeople. Fourteen groups participated.

Mrs. Kessler met each group as they entered the downtown section and welcomed them. Some nights she was left standing alone when the singers didn't arrive.

The second year, opposition disappeared. And this year, 24 groups volunteered to sing. Caroling usually lasts an hour but because of the abundance of singers, frequently two groups sing on the same night.

In addition to church choirs, singers include Girl scout troops, the Hill School, the Salvation Army.

After the program gained a solid foothold, Mrs. Kessler tried to turn it over to a Christian.

"It would please me," she said. "If someone to whom Christmas is more personal and meaningful season would have a desire to handle the caroling program."

But each year the call goes out to Mrs. Kessler.

"I just can't turn them down," she said. "It's a wonderful program and adds so much to the Christmas season. The spirit of Christmas, after all, is good will and this is the aim of all faiths."

No extras employed by Post Office

STROUDSBURG — Something new hasn't been added this year.

The something is extra help in the post offices during Christmas season rush.

"We haven't employed any part-time help the past two years," Fred Rhodes, Stroudsburg postmaster said.

"In fact, none of the post offices in the area have had any additional help since 1966. Instead of adding new help the regular men have been working overtime," he continued.

"It is the feeling of the Postal Department that the regular men can handle the volume of mail at this time of year. This feeling has come about as a result of the people in the various communities mailing their Christmas mail early."

"In fact, none of the offices in the area have expanded the window service daily or on Saturdays. We are running the same schedule we have been on since last summer," he concluded.

Rhodes said the volume of mail passing through the post offices is running about the same as last year and that outgoing mail is being handled at the same rate.

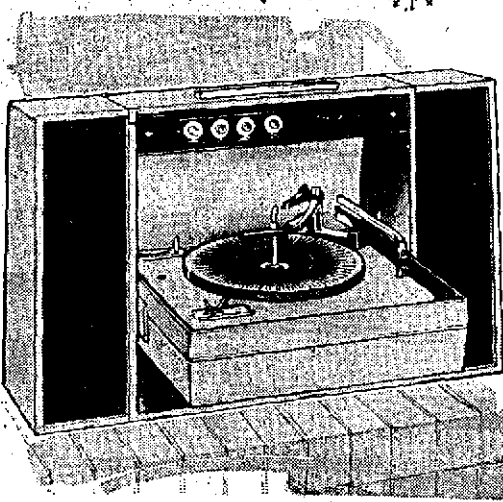

Flu cuts visits in hospital

The restriction, which will take effect Tuesday and last until further notice, is being taken because of the threat of Hong Kong flu, hospital officials said Monday.

Dancing should be fun

By JEAN ADAMS

CLOSE UP: (Q.) When a boy and girl slow-dance, should their bodies touch?

I'm 13, and last night I went to a birthday party. Some of the boys were timid, and there wasn't much dancing at first. The hostess suggested that one of the boys dance with me just to get things started.

He was 16 and popular and had danced a lot before. I felt very strange so close up to him, but it was fun.

A Reader in Houston, Texas.

(A.) When he brought you in close to him, the boy was dancing correctly. That is the way slow dances are.

But don't forget that there's such a thing as too close. As you grow older and dance more you will find boys who want to go to extremes of closeness.

Watch out for them and refuse to play their game, because your friends and the chaperones would misunderstand.

And if you let a boy wrap himself around you on the dance floor, he may get the wrong ideas about what he can do elsewhere.

Done right, dancing is exhilarating and wholesome, and it helps people young or old to know and like each other better. When you try to turn it into something else it stops being real dancing.

IT HURTS: (Q.) I have a close friend. She used to go with my boy friend. She never has stopped flirting with him. It hurts me so much!

I ask her over and over if she still likes him. She says she doesn't. What can I do to make her stop?

A Reader in Norwalk, Conn.

(A.) Quit worrying about this other girl before it shows! And ask her no more questions.

Look your best and act your best and always appear sure and serene around your boy friend and her. When she sees her arrows are just bouncing off she'll quit shooting them.

(Want personal answers to your questions? Write to Jean Adams, care of Pocono Record, 511 Lenox St., Stroudsburg, Pa. Be sure to enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Three growing cities air-condition southwest desert

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Three cities bloom now in the lonely deserts of the Southwest, each a new land of health and money, each with a vague chance of becoming part of a new supercity in the wilderness. All they really need is water in an area where there is not enough water to go around. There never was.

Yet, before World War II, these towns—Phoenix, Las Vegas and Palm Springs—were only shadowy promises.

Phoenix, barely 15 square miles then, was ringed with citrus, lettuce, dirt roads, cactus, some dude ranches, and barely 65,000 people huddled in the desert quiet.

Las Vegas was little more than a few blocks of new casinos learning to live with a nine-year-old law that legalized gambling.

Palm Springs was a lively little strip, a movie star haven, a two-year-old town astraddle an Indian reservation.

Today—some 30 years later—each of these oases is a caricature of its past, aching with the stresses of modern growth and their own Western eccentricity.

Surrounded by satellite towns, Phoenix is one vast suburb in search of a city.

Surrounded by Howard Hughes, Las Vegas is a dazzling welter of neon in search of a suburb.

Shafer picks Easton judge

HARRISBURG (AP) — Gov. Shafer has announced the appointment of Richard D. Grifo of Easton as a judge of the common pleas court of Northampton County.

The appointment was made under a legislative act increasing the number of judges in the Third Judicial District of Northampton County to four.

Shafer also announced the appointment of Edward J. Protin of Charleroi as sheriff of Washington County to serve until the first Monday of January, 1970. Protin succeeds William B. Hill, deceased.

And gentle Palm Springs, little more than a suburb itself, is surrounded by 98 local Indians who hold almost 25 per cent of the city. The federal government gave it to them nearly 100 years ago, and now they won't give it back.

These three cities form the points of a triangle reaching across purple mountain and golden desert, a sunlit golden crescent through Nevada, Arizona and California.

They have air-conditioned the desert, carpeted it with green lawns, studded it with swimming pools and sprawling ranch-style homes. Yet each of these booming Western towns wants to be something it isn't.

Phoenix is writhing with change. In less than 10 years, 500 industrial plants moved into town. Manufacturing now outsells the tourist trade 4-to-1. Now people come to Phoenix for jobs more than for the sun. They have created a city on wheels, built around more than 100 bustling extravagant shopping centers, a city of near strangers where six out of 10 families moved into new homes in just six years.

Las Vegas is a high-living night club with a yen to settle down. Its grocery stores, dry cleaners and casinos are open around the clock. The only machines that don't offer instant wealth are the public telephones and the parking meters. Long-legged show girls strut through the late morning shows in this new entertainment capital of America.

It is really two towns in one—The Strip people who mix the drinks, run the tables, count the money, fix the slots; and the other people who work 9-to-5 in offices and stores, a middle class, lights out-at-11 kind of people who resent out-of-towners asking them how it is living in "sin city."

Palm Springs, the mecca of movie stars and presidents, has a reputation as a swinging town, but the swinging is more largo than go-go, more golf club than night club. It is a town where one out of four homeowners lives somewhere else most of the time, where expensive homes are built around dining rooms, where the day begins with a tee-off time. It has 21 golf courses, 3,900 swimming pools, and, of course, the surrounding Indians. But down the valley, and moving toward Palm Springs like the U.S. cavalry are a series of new, small towns, a possible omen of the future.

Phoenix, Las Vegas, Palm Springs, each of them grows and grows and grows.

Spilling into their sandy valleys they have tripled their population since 1950. The Las Vegas Valley has more than half the people of Nevada. Metropolitan Phoenix has more than half the people of Arizona. And Palm Springs isn't half as big as it could be.

The less than 1½ million people of these three valleys are host each year to over 18 million tourists, nearly 16 million in Las Vegas alone. Palm Springs, with a resident population of some 23,000, booms to 50,000 on weekends.

Many people who come for the fun or the sun are inclined to stay. These three valleys are catching the supercity backlash, the disillusioned, smug-weary expatriates of the West Coast and Midwest. Displaced Californians are the biggest single immigrant group to booming Phoenix. Displaced Chicagoans are next.

But new homes and new people don't change old problems. In Palm Springs, the white man thinks it's an Indian problem. The Indian thinks it's a paleface problem. The Indians say, "Aller all, we didn't invite them here."

The Agua Caliente band of Indians have been here so long no one knows when they came. The Spanish found them scratching out a bare existence in the desert, and named them for the hot waters.

In the 1800s the white man surveyed the land, broke it up into one-mile sections, drawing his grid lines over the desert valley and rising mountain. When he decided to build a railroad, he gave every other square-mile-section to the company, which sold the land to pay for track. Color these sections white.

Then the "great white father," perhaps for conscience, gave the sections in between the Agua Calientes as a reservation. Color these sections red.

The movie stars and the wealthy discovered the solace behind the San Jacinto Mountains which shelter Palm Springs from the noise and sprawl of southern California. They built homes. In 1938, they created a city on this wild checkerboard, and called it Palm Springs.

The city grew. The white man built on his land. Largely the Indian lay vacant.

In 1959, the federal government allowed Indian lands to be broken up into individually-held plots which the Indians could sell or rent, secretary of the Interior permitting.

Since then, the Indians have sold 30 per cent of their original 8,000 city acres, and leased another 16 per cent.

Reagan issues warning to students

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Ronald Reagan said Tuesday a moment of confrontation has arrived on California college campuses and "there is no longer any room for appeasement or give."

Police will ring campuses "if that's what they must do" to keep the schools running and to protect those who really want an education, the governor, a Republican, told a news conference.

Reagan commended the hard stand taken at San Francisco State College by Acting President S. I. Hayakawa in the face of attempts to close down the school until 15 demands at met. "That will continue when the vacation is over," Reagan said of Hayakawa's strategy. "As far as I'm concerned, that is the settlement."

He added, "I think on the basis of attrition, Dr. Hayakawa is winning."

A strike has been called at San Francisco State by the Black Students Union, the Students for a Democratic Society and the Third World Liberation Front in support of 15 demands that include creation of a separate black studies department and admission of any minority students who want to enter the 18,000-student college.

Rather than have police ringing the campus for months, Reagan said, "I would suggest... concerted plans to get rid of those professors who've made it apparent that

One hour short

Pierre Levegh was the only driver to attempt driving the 24-hour Le Mans endurance race unaided. He led late into the 23rd hour when, due to fatigue, he missed a shift and broke his crankshaft.

they are far more interested in closing the school than in fulfilling their contracts to teach, and likewise, ridding the campus of those part-time students or those nonstudents who are the militant leaders there."

He called these people "the criminal element" and said the idea of acceding to their demands is ridiculous.

"Those who find it intolerable to go to college under existing conditions can go elsewhere for their education and I suggest, in view of their attitude, they really need an education," Reagan said.

Two receive prison terms in slaying

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Two Philadelphians were sentenced to prison in Camden County Court Tuesday for the shooting death last May 4 of an Audubon, N.J., man.

John Siggsen, 26, was sentenced to 12 to 15 years, and Philip Gagliardi, 24, was given a 10 to 12-year term.

The two men had pleaded no defense in the slaying of 21-year-old Robert L. Cassanova Jr., following an argument.

Tight credit inflation curb

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Reserve Board moved Tuesday to tighten credit amid signs the economy is still moving relentlessly toward increased inflation.

Saying the move was dictated partly by a "resurgence of inflationary expectations," the board announced an increase in its discount rate from 5 1/4 per cent to 5 1/2 per cent, an action money-men have been anticipating for weeks.

The rate is the level of interest charged by Federal Reserve district banks on loans to their member banks. Since the borrowing banks tack on a markup before relending these funds to businesses and other private seekers of credit, a rise in the discount rate eventually tends to make credit more expensive all along the line.

Preceding the board's announcement by only a few hours was its report that the industrial production index, a monthly accounting of the output of the nation's factories, mills and mines, showed a strong rise in November.

The Commerce Department, meanwhile, reported an increase in all forms of personal income in November that brought personal income for the first 11 months of the year to an annual rate nine per cent above that of January through November 1967.

The discount rate increase takes effect Wednesday in eight of the 11 districts.

New York's Voice of Broadway

NEW YORK — Cliff Robertson's back from Biafra with highly explosive factual film about the atrocities there; Cliff really risked his life. Wife Dina Merrill is terribly proud of Cliff but did her damndest to keep him home; now she's proud she failed. He had an unprecedented half hour interview with the Biafran head-of-state "who speaks better English than I do," Cliff told us.

A couple of hours before he flew to Biafra, very secretly, Cliff had a quiet meeting with us to tell us the why, what and where of his adventurous jaunt. An old friend, who trusted our discretion, Cliff said he simply wanted someone to know precisely the facts in case he got killed or captured on his humanitarian trek.

He took only one cameraman and one soundman along, said it wasn't some crazy exhibitionism that drove him, simply a compulsive conviction that went in almost glandular insistence beyond the mere sympathies everyone feels for the 15,000 a day dying of starvation in Biafra.

Cliff never was a glory-guy, in fact is rather the opposite; in this case, as we said before, having made appeals to help mortally starving Biafrans all over network television, he decided it was time to put his life where his mouth was. Fine lad, Cliff, we're proud to have him as a friend.

Meanwhile, back here in no doubt fun city a 55-year-old woman was mugged at 10 p.m. right across from Gracie Mansion — the Mayor's residence. Kennedy-in-law Steve Smith will take five of the late RPK's kids skiing for the holidays.

Loew's Sheridan Theatre goes the way of all huge movie mosques; bought by its neighbor St. Vincent's Hospital as site for a nursing home.

Merv Griffin admired the Duke of Bedford's pip-pip Prince Albert jacket and Ian told Merv he'd just bought it for $45 at Alexander's on Lexington Ave. The Red Buttons dined at the mouth-watering Spanish Pavilion — and brought along some of their own food; the Buttons are health food nuts.

Congressmen gave themselves a quiet gift: free phone calls after 5 p.m. Operator, we want our tax back. Miami Beach's Fontainebleau hotel owner Ben Novack sold his hotel-named yacht for one million smackers. Jill O'Hara's first major Broadway break came in "Promises, Promises" and she was out of the show three times the first week with the Hong-kongs. Broadway columnist emeritus Louis Sobol was hospitalized for the imported flu. Louis' memoirs, "The Longest Street," is a warm, nostalgic, fascinating look at his more than 40 years covering the New York scene.

One hit film ("The Graduate") made Dustin Hoffman so hot, he's getting about $5,000 a week in "Jimmy Shine" (a dandy comedy folks under 30 should love) and when it pays off, he'll get 30 per cent of the profits. Alger Hiss will break his silence for an article in a N.Y. University publication.

One of the finest labels in high style, Cell Chapman, who was victim of a terrible uninsured fire, a couple of seasons ago, returns in triumph to the fashion wars in a publicly financed firm bearing her always-chic name.

Doesn't sound much like a two-listed man's saloon: the new First Ave. spot called "The Alice" — Brownie McLean of the Palm Beach chic set will head a chapter there of "Smoke Watchers." Coffin-Nail answer to AA... Helene Fortescue Reynolds opened Kenyon's Painting Pad in the Volney Hotel and talked her pal Elaine Stritch into sending over a dab of Elaine.

Johnny Meyer jetted to Paris for a weekend with pal Ari Onassis (Daddy O.) with not only expense money but a packet of steak for director John Huston from their mutual pal Nick Manero, the steak tycoon... Snazzy Salum Sanctorum grows its own thyme, basil and rosemary seasoning right on its own terrace. Peggy Ryan is shaking the sand of Honolulu from her grass skirt (she's lived there for years running her own successful dance studios) to tape television shows with her old movie partner Donald O'Connor. Ann Landers

Shoplifter repents

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a teen-ager and one of the luckiest people on earth because I haven't been caught. I began to shoplift about a year ago. I was with a friend who picked up two tubes of lipstick in a drugstore. It looked so easy I decided to try it.

To make a long story short, I have shoplifted $47 worth of items from a big department store. (I kept track.) A few weeks ago I began to feel ashamed of myself. I also began to break out in a cold sweat every time I passed that store. Recently I decided to make a New Year's resolution: No more stealing.

I have $39 saved and I want to send it to the store. I'll send the rest when I can. Please tell me how to go about returning the money without revealing myself. Does this make any sense to you?

NEW LEAF

Dear New: Yes, it makes a lot of sense. Send the money (well wrapped so it doesn't show through the envelope) to the store's credit manager. Enclose a note saying, "This is part payment for merchandise I shoplifted. The balance will be sent later."

And now, I have an idea. Between us we could start a national trend toward honesty. I suggest that every person who is shoplifting — and wants to quit — follow your lead. Mail to the credit manager of a store you've stolen from, as much money as you can spare. It will serve as a symbol of "The New Leaf."

If the credit managers who receive these envelopes will let me know the names of the stores, I will publish them. Wouldn't it be wonderful if I heard from every one of the 50 states?

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I were married two years ago in Washington, D.C. It was a hurry-up affair in the judge's chambers because my fiancé was leaving for Vietnam and received his orders suddenly.

Both of us regret that we didn't have a church wedding with all the trimmings. We have decided "better late than never." We want to be married on our third anniversary and invite all our relatives and friends to a real honest-to-goodness, bride-and-groom affair — new rings, satin gown, rice and the works.

My mother blew her stack when I told her... we have a little daughter now and my mother says no woman in her right mind would have a fancy church wedding after she has had a child. I think she is being very narrow-minded and old-fashioned.

Please print your answer so my mother can see it.

WHEELING, W. VA.

Dear Wheel: I'm printing your letter so YOU can see it, Doll. I agree with your mother.

Dear Ann Landers: Does my husband need to be straightened out or am I overly sensitive? We have been married 18 months. This is my first marriage, Conrad's second.

Whenever he introduces me to friends (and this has been going on from the day we married) he says, "Meet Charlotte, my new wife. My first wife died four years ago."

I don't think it is necessary for Conrad to mention his first wife when he introduces me to friends.

What is your opinion, Ann?

PITTSBURGH MRS. Dear Mrs.: What Conrad needs is something ELSE to say. Suggest a substitute sentence. Hows this for openers? "I'd like you to meet my wife Charlotte. We've been married 18 months and she still looks like a bride, doesn't she?"

Popular craft toys of the 18th century, these toy soldiers were typical of the Erzgebirge production.

Antique Lore

By Ruth Kay

Back in the days when the nearest store was far, far away or the family budget couldn't be stretched enough for even one store-bought toy, families attempted to make their own toys. These toys tell the story of whittling, stitching, daubing and painting.

To gladden the hearts of the youth a century ago toys were often small-sized working vehicles by which farm children learned to do farm work such as model butterchurns, wagons and shovel harrows. The rag doll which is 100 years old was literally a rag doll with the face penciled in. Toys of this type are scarce although they were made everywhere in rural America.

Looking through the toy catalogs of 1902 you can get a glimpse of toys and ornaments offered at that time. Pictured is a tiny doll with a bottle, that turns out to be the first British paper doll patented about 1893. This was used as a tree ornament.

For the boys, cast iron toys of trains, fire engines and horse drawn wagons were made in large quantities. Little girls received Pewter Tea Sets along with Pewter Doll furniture. Many of these items today make excellent gifts for someone who is interested in antiques.

Wood cutters of the 17th and 18th century contributed what is referred to as the toys of Erzgebirge named for the district they were made in Germany. These wooden toys were loved by children and adults. The wooden toy soldiers were typical of the Erzgebirge production along with wooden nut crackers and pull toys. These toys are still being made today mostly by machine.

Questions and answers

Q. I have an old mantel clock and wonder if you could tell me as to just how old or valuable it may be. It has the original face and is in good running condition. The company name on the face is Gilbert Clock Co., Winsted, Conn. It is encased in a carved wood setting, needs a key for winding.

A. Most carved clocks were "Kitchens." The wood was pressed, most were made after 1900 and sold then at $4.00 each; hundreds of thousands were made. The antique market has an ample supply. A common expression in collecting is "The label is more valuable than the clock."

Q. I have what is called a Danish Christmas Plate. Can you tell me if they are still being made and who makes them?

A. There are two factories that make these Christmas Plates. One is The Royal Copenhagen Porcelain Mfg., founded in 1779, it has been issuing them each year since 1908. The other is Bing and Gröndahl founded in 1853, and has been issuing them since 1895.

Yule sales eye record

NEW YORK (AP) — There will be more presents around the Christmas tree in most American homes this year, and the gifts probably will be of better quality, a survey of retailers across the country shows.

Christmas sales are expected to rise between 5 and 10 per cent over last year, running to a record of more than $810 million.

Clarkson Wright, Inc., Burlington, Vt., reported increases of 10 to 15 per cent, Sage Discount Store in Austin, Tex., expects a 10 to 20 per cent hike, the Globe store in Phoenix projects a 20 per cent rise in Christmas sales.

"I don't remember people spending money as freely in years," said Clint Miller, chairman of the Downtown Retail Merchants Bureau in Des Moines, Iowa. "People save for a while and all of a sudden they say—we're going to have something now and enjoy it."

Only a few areas report Christmas spending drops. Newark, N.J., retailers blame the racial unrest of recent years for declining sales.

Ticketers quit

DURBAN, South Africa (AP) — Two of Durban's 12 metermaids, Mrs. Yvonne Coleman, 27, and Miss Lesley O'Callaghan, 21, quit after six weeks of ticketing illegally parked cars. They said they were abused and ridiculed and Miss O'Callaghan reported one motorist threatened to run down a girl trying to ticket his car.

Proposals for State Department reforms cite new times

(Editor's Note: A group of reformers known as the Young Turks are making an effort to change what they consider decrepit and nationally damaging systems within the U.S. State Department. Their goals and their progress are the subject of a five-part series prepared for The Pocono Record by David B. Ottaway, a staff member of the Record's Washington Bureau.)

PART FOUR

By DAVID B. OTTAWAY
Record Washington Bureau

How should the State Department be re-organized to meet the challenge of managing foreign affairs?

Before answering that question, the Young Turks say, one must analyze the Foreign Service's role in managing foreign affairs and the tools at its disposal.

The viewpoint of the "old guard," as tersely put by retired Ambassador Ellis O. Biggs at a recent AFSA conference here, is that the job of the diplomat is limited to influencing the foreign policies of other countries.

Briggs, like many of his peers, feels that AID and USIA programs, aimed at influencing the institutions and values of other countries, are not part of diplomacy and thus not properly the concern of the Foreign Service.

The Young Turks disagree. Their argument, as stated in the November 1968 manifesto "Are We Obsolete," is that there have been basic changes in the methodology of foreign affairs.

"By this we mean that the Foreign Service was called into being at a time when the principal tools of foreign affairs were diplomatic. In 1966, however, the principal tools of foreign affairs can, more properly be considered military, technical, or financial."

Since the tools of diplomacy have changed, so must the scope and organization of the State Department and the training of Foreign Service officers.

The 17-point reform program by the American Foreign Service Association (AFSA) in October, "Toward a Modern Diplomacy," proposes sweeping changes in the organization of the State Department's top management and of the personnel systems of the various agencies involved in foreign affairs. It also outlines a new kind of training for Foreign Service officers to teach them to wield the new tools of the trade.

The AFSA blueprint for reform calls first for the creation of a new number-two position in the State Department to lighten the crushing work load now handled by the Secretary of State alone.

The "Foreign Secretary," the name proposed for this number-two man, would be a member of the Cabinet and serve as the alter ego of the Secretary of State.

One of his primary functions would be to attend many of the international conferences that took up 500 days of Dean Rusk's precious time over the past eight years. This would free the Secretary of State to devote more of his time to Vietnam, NATO, or whatever the current crisis.

Objective: 'nerve center'
The major objective of the AFSA blueprint, however, is to establish a real "nerve center" inside the State Department, an office where analysis, planning, and allocating of resources could be coordinated.

This "nerve center" would be run by a "Permanent Under Secretary," who would become the third-ranking power of the State Department and its "general manager."

The office of the Permanent Under Secretary would be responsible for systematic advance planning of the nation's foreign policy at the country, regional, and global levels—a concept still foreign to the State Department. It would also produce alternative policy proposals for the Secretary to consider instead of presenting him with a single recommendation, as is now most often the case.

The office would, in addition, review the budgets of all agencies involved in foreign affairs, except those of the military and the CIA.

The reformers envisage the Permanent Under Secretary as the chief "modernizer" of the State Department, the man who would develop the use of systems analysis, computers, and data bank in managing foreign affairs.

He would also be the chief coordinator of foreign policy by virtue of his position as chairman of the Senior Inter-departmental Group (SIG), where all the major Departments and agencies (CIA, State, AID, USIA, Pentagon) involved in making policy are now represented.

The reformers do not go so far as to advocate a single

"Department of Foreign Affairs" incorporating all the departments and agencies presently in the business of foreign affairs.

"Let's consolidate this side of the river first," remarked Charles W. Bray, one reform leader.

The State Department, USIA, and AID are located on the east side of the Potomac River; the Pentagon and CIA on the west side.

But they do propose the goal of a unified Foreign Service, which would staff all agencies working abroad, other than the CIA and the armed forces.

This goal could be reached, the reformers argue, by reviving the nearly-defunct Board of the Foreign Service and making it an independent body outside the State Department and free of political interference and inter-agency rivalry.

Control of personnel
The Board would begin by establishing common personnel policies and would eventually take charge of recruiting, promotion, and firing for all the agencies working abroad.

The AFSA report contends, however, that better management of foreign affairs is not just a question of unifying agencies and personnel systems. It also means better managers.

Thus, it proposes to create a new breed of diplomats called "Foreign Service Executives," who would come from all the agencies and be selected for their "career diversity, intellectual achievement, and executive skills." Like junior executives of a big company, they would be given special training for the job of top management.

The Board of the Foreign Service would choose the best of these Executives to become ambassadors and directors of AID and USIA programs abroad.

The dossier of the future "ambassador-manager" might show this record: he would have one specialty (economics, politics, administration); have served time in AID, USIA, or the CIA; taken a special course in management, worked at the Office of Economic Opportunity or for a private company, and taken a leave-of-absence for graduate work at a university.

To produce such a "renaissance ambassador," the AFSA report strongly urges a new mobility among agencies and a new openness on the part of the Foreign Service toward the outside world — universities, government agencies, and private industry.

Not by chance, none of the reforms proposed in the AFSA report requires new legislation.

Provisos at hand
The Foreign Service Act of 1946, according to the reformers, contains the necessary provisions to establish a unified Foreign Service, while Executive Orders would suffice to create the posts of Foreign Secretary and Permanent Under Secretary. The other reforms are a matter of internal policy.

The Young Turks vastly prefer reform from within to reform imposed by such "outsiders" as Congress or another presidential blue-ribbon committee.

Yet, they are in a race against time, and they know it.

Sen. J. William Fulbright, chairman of the powerful Foreign Relations Committee, has already introduced a bill to establish a "Commission on Organizational Reforms" in the State Department, USIA, and AID. He has also served notice he plans to hold hearings early next year.

Whether the AFSA blueprint for reform is adopted before Congress acts will depend largely on the next President and his Secretary of State.

Merger plan announced

SUNBURY, Pa. (AP) — The First National Bank of Sunbury and the Snyder County Trust Co. of Selinsgrove Tuesday announced tentative merger plans.

The board of directors of the two central Susquehanna Valley financial institutions said that plans for the proposed merger would be submitted to stockholders of each bank in January.

Officials of the two banks said that all employees would be retained and that the offices of the bank in Sunbury, Selinsgrove and Shamokin-Dam would continue to operate.

Trouble comes a long way

Warren C. Fie watches a salt-water geyser that erupts every 15 minutes on his farm near Greenville, Ill., since the earthquake last Nov. 9. Fie was notified that under state law he cannot permit the salt water to flow into a nearby creek. State has requested he have the well plugged properly, a costly job that must be done at his own expense.

Oilmen heartened by Nixon climate

HOUSTON (AP) — The petroleum industry will carry a number of problems into 1969 despite having had a rather healthy 1968.

Such matters as taxes and oil imports will require considerable attention in Washington but oilmen, in general, are encouraged over prospects for what they believe will be a more conservative climate under President-elect Richard M. Nixon and the new 91st Congress.

There also is indication the new year will find oilmen placing even greater emphasis on responding to the increasing demands of society. The industry already is spending more than $1 million a day on air and water pollution research that is to be expanded even more.

For the most part, 1968 was a record breaker but after effects of the 1967 Arab-Israeli war kept some record operating levels from climbing higher.

Early estimates of 1968 earnings by major companies with foreign interests centered on gains of 7 to 8 per cent, compared with 9 and 10 per cent for 1967.

Foreign and domestic demand for petroleum products set all-time highs but earnings were trimmed by longer and more costly tanker routes and by year-end erosion of some domestic products prices.

By mid-year the tanker route readjustments forced by the prolonged closing of the Suez Canal had stabilized somewhat and, for the most part, eliminated requirements for emergency Western Europe shipments from the United States and Venezuela.

These changes, however, were accompanied by a rather sharp buildup in domestic inventories of both crude oil and products. Total inventories broke the billion-barrel mark the first time in history in August. Numerous warnings of danger ahead were heard as the bulky stock levels continued into early December.

Domestic operators and refiners produced and processed more oil than ever before in history as January-October demand exceeded 12.8 million barrels a day, a 6.7 per cent gain over 1967.

Crude oil production averaged 9,150,000 barrels, compared to 8,785,000 a year earlier. Refiners had processed an average of 10,323,000 barrels of crude a day, compared to 9,764,000 in 1967.

Imported oil also averaged a record 2,760,000 barrels a day. The 9.4 per cent gain resulted in part from the delayed use of some 1967 import permits that could not be used during the Middle East emergency.

The import trends prompted a number of major companies to join many independent operators in calling for a reevaluation of the Interior Department's Mandatory Oil Import Control Program.

Imports have drawn much of the blame for a domestic drilling slump that saw total well completions drop from 58,259 to 33,818 between 1966 and 1967.

There was some indication, however, of a minor increase for 1968. January-October completions totaled 23,024, compared to 22,976 the same year earlier period.

Bureaucracy 'need not be faceless'

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Stu Forth, director of libraries at the University of Kentucky, doesn't stand on formality. He placed this sign in front of the building: "New Faculty—If we have not met, come see me if you can find my office, Room 310. We may have to have a bureaucracy, but it need not be a faceless one."

Impossible Players

PUEBLO, Colo. (AP) — A stage group at Pueblo calls itself the Impossible Players.

TRENTON, N.J. (AP)—Atty. Gen. Arthur J. Silles said Tuesday he will ask the State Supreme Court to convene a statewide grand jury to examine organized crime's influence on official life in New Jersey.

Silles said that the panel will consider charges made by Asst. Atty. Gen. William J. Brennan III that legislators are "comfortable with organized crime." But he said the investigation into Brennan's allegations would be only one facet of an investigation into all aspects of criminal influence in the state.

Silles and Brennan had both said that the charges against five legislators involved associations and were not indictable, although there was the possibility of indictment against a sixth.

But officials emphasized that the grand jury, if convened, could hear the charges and criticize the actions of the legislators in the form of presentments without bringing any criminal charges against them.

Silles received the authority to convene the statewide panel on Monday, when Gov. Richard J. Hughes signed a bill permitting the formation of grand juries across county lines.

"It was always my intention to call for a statewide grand jury," Silles said. "This incident with the charges against the legislators will be taken up, but it was not the reason I called it."

The Senate and Assembly Judiciary Committees, headed by McDermott, were called in for an extraordinary special evening session Monday, ostensibly to hear Brennan's testimony.

But although Brennan appeared before the joint committees for an hour, there was no testimony.

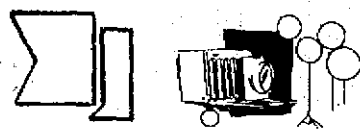

Brennan said some of the information comes from confidential FBI and police files and to disclose it publicly might endanger some of his informants.

Antiwar group mails draft cards

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Resistance, an antiwar group, said Tuesday it has mailed 30 draft cards to United Nations Secretary General U Thant in protest of the Vietnam War.

A letter accompanying the alleged draft cards said the protestors were taking the action to bring to U Thant's attention their refusal to serve as soldiers and also their affirmation of United Nations principles.

The cards were collected after demonstrations Nov. 14 at Temple University and Rittenhouse Square.

Doe season extended a day; area kill reported good

STROUDSBURG — The doe kill in Monroe County and surrounding counties has been fair to good according to reports from the two-day season, but apparently they were not high enough and the game commission has extended the doe season to include Saturday.

Ernest Taylor, Monroe county game protector, said the kill for Monroe has actually been "pretty good" considering the extremely cold and windy weather conditions which kept more hunters from the woods during Monday and Tuesday.

According to Hans Goedeke, game protector in upper Monroe County, the kill was "real good" and probably better than last year during the two days.

Taylor said the commission's feeling was that it wanted a better than average kill this year because of lack of natural food supply. Taylor said he had examined some of the dressed deer which were killed in the heavily wooded areas and found no build-up of fat.

Taylor explained that under the inclement weather clause, the commission has the authority to extend the season. In Monroe county, 8,750 doe licenses were issued this year which is about 100 less than last year, Taylor said.

No hunting accidents were reported but Taylor did remind hunters to display both regular license and doe license on their back when hunting.

Dan McPeck, game protector for Pike County, said there was a "good harvest" of doe during the two days. More licenses were available this year than in the past and more hunters were out despite the poor weather.

Most of the kills were on state game land and state forest land. The county issued some 13,000 doe licenses.

McPeck said he investigated one hunting accident on Tuesday, a self-inflicted wound.

According to McPeck, Herbert Quick of Milford, R.D., apparently shot himself in the leg and was taken to St.

Francis Hospital in Port Jervis for treatment.

Tom Meelian, game protector for Wayne County, said the doe kill was good despite the weather but the hunter turnout was still light compared to last year. No accidents were reported. Slightly over 9,000 doe licenses were issued in Wayne County.

Although the deer population is reported as heavy in Northampton County, according to R.W. Anderson, district game protector, the hunter turnout was light compared to previous years.

Bomb scare clues found by police

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County District Attorney's office Wednesday revealed the first break in a series of bomb scares at Stroudsburg Area High School.

Philip Williams said Stroudsburg police have a lead concerning a call made Tuesday. The caller using a private phone, did not make a bomb threat, but said he had information that a bomb was in the school.

After consulting police, school officials decided not to evacuate the school, a normal procedure in a bomb scare situation.

Williams said he has discussed the case with borough police and said the police are working on a lead with the Bell Telephone Co.

The district attorney also said he is interviewing witnesses in a similar case at East Stroudsburg Area High School.

Police investigation praised

Murder suspect, wife had arguments

STROUDSBURG — A spokesman in the Monroe County District Attorney's office said Wednesday that an investigation into the murder of Mrs. Beatrice Bender, Stillwater Lake, Pocono Summit has revealed that the victim and her husband argued several times before the fatal shooting.

Police have charged Max Bender, 63, the husband, with an open charge of murder.

The questioning of neighbors has brought out the fact that Bender and his wife had argued on several occasions before Mrs. Bender was shot twice in the head last Friday morning, the spokesman said.

District Attorney Phillip Williams said the State Police investigating team, headed by Det. Sgt. Michael Dean, is attempting to uncover evidence which would place Bender in the home at the time of the shooting.

State Police in Philadelphia have substantiated the fact that Bender spent Friday night in a Philadelphia motel.

Williams also complimented the police detail investigating the circumstances surrounding the shooting.

Mike Dean and the other investigators are doing a thorough and complete job. They are beginning to piece together the circumstances. However, the case has not been solved by any means," Williams said.

Williams also said that he will arrange a meeting in the near future with Bender's attorney, William J. Leon, Philadelphia, to discuss the state's case.

Bender is being held without bail in Monroe County Jail on an open charge of murder, which was lodged during a preliminary arraignment before Mount Pocono Justice of the Peace Mrs. Emma Merwin.

S-burg school board tables discussion on tax collectors

STROUDSBURG — Dr. John P. Lim, secretary of the Stroudsburg Area School Board, Wednesday asked board members if a proposed central tax collection office for the four school districts would save the Stroudsburg School District any money, and also if the proposal was legal.

Any changes in a school district tax collector's system, commissions or salaries must be made by area school boards no later than Feb. 18, 1968.

Dr. Lim pointed out that Stroudsburg paid less than one per cent for the cost of local tax collections by the elected tax collectors, from Stroudsburg, Stroud and Hamilton and Delaware Water Gap townships. These collectors are all salaried.

The four district tax collectors were paid a total salary of $11,500, and they collected $1,316,158. Dr. Lim said basing these figures on the 1967-1968 audit of the district's financial operations.

However, any discussion of the central tax collection agency, recently proposed by Irving Sommer, president of the East Stroudsburg School Board, was nipped in the bud by outgoing president Raymond Roberts.

When Dr. Lim questioned the legality of a central tax agency, Roberts maintained the question was out of order, that it was premature and not pertinent to a business.

Rodney Baechtold, apparently siding with Dr. Lim, urged the board to allow Dr. Lim to explain his position on the proposed central tax office. Baechtold said that Stroudsburg pays less percentage wise to its tax collectors than the three other school districts in the county.

Balance sought

STROUDSBURG — Kanize Paints Inc., Everett, Mass., Wednesday filed suit with the Monroe County Court asking for a judgment of $338 against Albert R. McCormick and Roger V. Lesinski, co-partners of Stroudsburg Building Supply, 764 N. Ninth St., Stroudsburg. The suit is for an alleged unpaid bill.

"Even though we (the district) pay the least amount, this still doesn't mean we can't have substantial savings in our own district," John Baynor said, alluding to the central tax agency which he called at present "strictly a study."

"We're prejudging," Roberts said. "We should table any further comments until our next meeting."

The board agreed to study any change in district tax collection methods before the January meeting of the board.

In other business, the board: —Hired Linda Wassor as a secondary mathematics teacher at an annual salary of $5,600.

— Accepted the resignation of Larry B. Kieck, junior high science teacher, and Mrs. Mary K. Namiotka, elementary teacher.

—Appointed Warren Eshback as a substitute secondary History and English teacher.

Superintendent Earl Groner noted that there are still three teacher vacancies, in elementary German, English and science.

—Appointed board member Bernard Frantz to serve as a representative to the Pennsylvania School Board's Legislative Council and Raymond Price as alternate.

—Appointed Roberts as a member of a county study (cost savings) committee.

—Re-elected William P. Wells to another five-year term to the Stroudsburg Area School Authority.

Countians outpace soaring inflation

(Special to the Record)

STROUDSBURG — To what extent has the rising cost of living affected residents of Monroe County?

Have incomes in the local area increased sufficiently in the last few years to enable the average family to absorb these higher costs and have something additional left over?

During the past four years, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, prices have been moving upward at an accelerated rate.

Whereas the cost of living rose 1.7 per cent nationally in 1964, the 1968 rise has been nearly three times that much, or almost five cents on the dollar.

A calculation based upon the over-all figures shows that Monroe County residents must spend $14,412,000 more per year than they did four years ago to purchase the same amount of goods and services.

The increases have been across the board, from the cost of mailing a letter to the price of a man's haircut and a meal in a restaurant. Hospital services, physicians' fees, insurance rates, apparel and transportation have been among the leaders in the general movement upward.

As a result, normal living costs in the local area are approximately 13 per cent higher, or $1,050 more per family, than they were in 1964.

That is the extent to which it has affected families with net incomes of $8,092, which was the local average in the past year.

For those at the $12,000 level, the loss in buying power due to inflation in the four-year period amounted to $1,560, it is estimated. Those with incomes of $9,000 had a loss of $1,170. Families at the $5,000 level, on the other hand, had a drop of only $650, but they felt the squeeze to a greater degree.

Despite the inroads of inflation, however, residents of Monroe County made out quite well in the four years.

The average income of local families rose from $6,169 to $8,092 in the period.

Firemen to meet

EAST STROUDSBURG — Acme Hose Co. firemen will meet today at 6:30 p.m. in the firehouse and then decorate the Borough's Christmas Tree.

Planners to formally elect Williams as administrator

STROUDSBURG — The Monroe County Planning and Zoning Commission will meet in special session Saturday at 9 a.m. to publicly name Douglas Williams planning administrator.

Decision to conduct the special meeting was made to "overcome any doubt" on the legality of Williams' appointment.

The legality of Williams' appointment was questioned by Elwood Hintze, chairman of the Monroe County Commissioners. The Planning Commission appointed Williams during an executive session following its regular public meeting December 3.

Marshall Reese, planning chairman, emphasized that the Commission will more than meet state law requirements regarding the appointment.

The planning commission, although it had voted three times—all 8 to 1 decisions—to hire Williams, had never publicly voted on a resolution to fill the vacancy left by Leonard Ziolkowski, Ziolkowski has resigned as executive director of the commission.

The nine-member commission decided to take the official action in a public session Saturday morning during a private discussion Monday night with the Monroe County Commissioners.

Monday night's meeting was two-fold, however. It also provided Hintze the opportunity to determine first-hand how each member of the commission feels about the appointment.

Hintze had previously stated he would have to take a long hard look before authorizing a salary if the commission is divided on the appointment.

Although Reese did not say what the outcome of Saturday's voting might be, indications are it will again carry with an 8-1 vote with William D. McAden casting the only dissenting vote. McAden advocates hiring a professional qualified planner to head the commission staff.

Since the planners will only officially act on the appointment Saturday, the Monroe County Salary Board will have to delay its action. The Salary Board planned to act on Williams' approximate $11,500 annual salary today.

Hintze said the Salary Board will meet Monday to vote on Williams' salary. The Salary Board will still meet today, however, and act on other salary requests.

There had been a question previously whether Reese would be a member of the Salary Board.

Hintze said, according to a judgment by County Solicitor Elmer Christine, that Reese will be a member of the Salary Board.

The Salary Board members, therefore, are the three county commissioners, Reese and County Treasurer Thomas Joyce.

Burned-out family thanks 'unknowns' for generosity

STROUDSBURG — Mr. and Mrs. Richard Horton are thankful for the "unknowns" of Monroe County.

"We have a home to live in, thanks to Vincent Vecchio our landlord, and we have food and clothing, thanks to the Salvation Army and the people who have made donations, and we are thankful to God we have ourselves, our children and our health," Horton said as he looked around the kitchen of his new home on N. Ninth Street.

The family was burned out of its home early Tuesday morning.

The kitchen and living room of the new home was crowded with boxes of all shapes and sizes containing food and clothing.

"The downstairs looks a mess but we have the upstairs cleaned and looking very nice," Mrs. Barbara Horton said as she held Dawn, the Horton's two-month-old daughter.

"Tomorrow (Thursday) I will start down here and I hope by tomorrow night these rooms will look a little more presentable," she concluded.

As Mr. and Mrs. Horton talked, the couple's ten children played with toys that have been donated to them also.

The Horton's were told by a member of La Societe Des 40 Hommes et 4 Chevaux, Voiture 923, a former part of The American Legion, that the organization will establish credit in one of the stores in Stroudsburg and they will be able to go there and purchase things for the children.

The organization meets today in the West End Legion Post and will take official action on the proposal. The Horton's will be told tonight or Friday morning the name of the store and the amount of credit established.

Horton is employed by Al Seavo, a Stroudsburg businessman, and he and his family have lived in Stroudsburg just a little more than a year.

Two meetings are cancelled

STROUDSBURG — Two regular meetings scheduled for Wednesday night were cancelled.

A meeting of the Monroe County Soil and Water Conservation District was cancelled due to the sickness of members.

Stroud Township Planning Commission did not meet because of insufficient business transactions and conflict with other events.

"Dec. 9 was the day we moved up here from Elizabeth, N.J.," Mrs. Horton said as she handed 19-month-old Michael his bottle.

The Horton's seemed happy in their new home and appeared to have almost everything they need, except for some dressers for the children's clothes. Another piece of furniture that was absent from the home, but not mentioned by the Horton's, was a television set.

Can you imagine a house with children and no television?

Middle school proposed for Pocono Mountain

SWIFTWATER — An 800 to 1,000-pupil middle school ready for occupancy by September, 1972, was the chief recommendation for the Pocono Mountain School District made by Chaffee Associates, Bethlehem, long-range development planning consultants.

The other major recommendation was renovations in the district's four elementary centers. The long-range planning firm under the direction of Dr. Charles Chaffee urged that the renovations should be completed in the next five years, from 1969 to 1974.

The completed plan and its recommendations have been submitted to the Pennsylvania Department of Public Instruction for approval.

Projections, according to the study, indicate that the school district will exceed the maximum capacity of the high school building in the present school year, and that the need for additional classroom space will become more critical each additional school year.

Pocono Mountain School district's current pupil enrollment is about 2,530; 1,095 secondary and 1,435 elementary. Projected pupil enrollment will near 3,000 by the 1973-1974 school year, according to the plan.

Maximum pupil capacity in the four elementary buildings is 1,452, or only 17 pupils above the current pupil elementary figure of 1,435.

Maximum pupil capacity in the high school is 1,077. The current high school enrollment is 1,095, which means that the pupil capacity has already been exceeded.

U.S. moves to condemn land of Tocks opponent

STROUDSBURG — The federal government Wednesday moved to have 113.76 acres of land in Smithfield and Middle Smithfield townships condemned for use in the Tocks Island Reservoir project.

Among the property owners involved are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph M. Shukaitis, East Stroudsburg R.D. 1. Mrs. Shukaitis is vice chairman of the Monroe County Commissioners and the leading opponent of the giant federal project. Their home and adjoining eight acres are involved.

The property of Jacob B. Michael, Mrs. Shukaitis' father, also is involved, as is her late mother's property. The two tracts total approximately 103 acres.

Others whose properties are to be taken are R.F. Kistler Inc. and H. Edgar and Alma L. Matting, both of East Stroudsburg R.D. 1, who hold small parcels of land in the same area.

Mrs. Shukaitis said Wednesday she cannot understand how the government can initiate proceedings to have the land condemned when an appraisal has not yet been made.

Michael, the Shukaitis, and the executors of the estate of Mrs. Michael have refused to permit federal appraisers to enter the property to make an appraisal.

The government has asked Monroe County Prothonotary Frank J. Smith to place the paper on record to pave the way for the condemnation proceedings.

Warrior gridders honored at community testimonial

EAST STROUDSBURG — The East Stroudsburg State football 11 team, co-champions of the Pennsylvania State College Conference for 1968, received some early Christmas presents from the community Wednesday night.

Included in the list of gifts awarded in the college dining hall, were engraved watches for each player and coach, binoculars, gift certificates, a suit case, a blazer and a ham.

The ham was the final award of the program and was presented to head coach Charlie Reese as a symbol of what his squad thought of his halftime pep talks.

Receiving the watches engraved State Champions 1968 were players Joe Ahouse, Kenneth Baker, Bruce Bateman, Chuck Bierlein, George Brittain, Gary Childs, Jerry Clymer, Charles Corrado, Scott Cressman, Edward Csesentsis, Bob Dinan and Lee Dorton.

Also William Dukett, Robert Evans, William Forte, Ralph Gish, Augie Grant, Edward Hawyrlo, Joe Hlatky, Steve Hohenstein, William Horvath, James Howland, William Hurst, Harry Irvin and Stan Kabacinski.

Also Henry Kearns, Charles Keimath, Joseph Kelly, Neal Kennedy, Tom Kizis, Bob Malehorn, Joe McNulty, Charles Morrow, Dennis Morgan, Thomas Mullineaux, John Murphy and William Oberdick.

Also Robert Ott, John Plau, John Pitzer, Nevin Posey, John Procopio, Gary Schoenberger, Richard Sivak, Howard Sten, James Suponic, Tom Sykes, Danny Staats, John Tironi, Douglas Todd, Joe Vancho, Jim Waite, John Whitelavich, Jerry Witmer and Carl Wolfe.

Others associated with the team to receive watches were Terry Butler, head manager; Doug Dysher, assistant manager; Dennis Bender, student trainer and Bruce Hayne, head trainer.

Members of the coaching staff receiving gifts in addition to Reese were Robert Sulton, offensive line; Dennis Douds, defensive coordinator; Vern Walch, freshman and scouting; Ed Dear, defensive line coach; Doug McNamee, offensive ends; John Krimmer, defensive ends and Joe DeGregorio, defensive backs.

Dr. Frank Sills, college president, thanked the community on behalf of the school for the dinner and said he was justly proud of the honor this year's team has brought the school and the community.

Dr. Arne Olsen, head of the health and physical education department, publicly thanked the team and noted how easy it is to support a winner but few people know just what it takes to be one.

"It's nice to be able to say hello to champions," remarked John Eiler, athletic director. Eiler told of a conversation with an equipment salesman and how he was amazed at the size of the equipment the school was ordering. The salesman said "the coaching staff must have done one fine job with this team."

Dr. Harry Gamble, head football coach at Lafayette College, claimed the much heard statement "the players of today are not like those of 10 or 15 years ago" is a poor one.

"I feel we are working with young men who want to know what's in it for me," Gamble said. "I also feel that spring practice is the most miserable part of football where all you can do is work on new ideas."

Dr. Gamble also reported on a recent survey that shows a young man who has played inter-collegiate football and earns a degree has more to offer, especially in law.

"Touching on pride Dr. Gamble said 'If a boy has pride in his work he will do a much better job. Pride motivates us to do better and of course we, as coaches, have to have some gimmicks.'"

Gamble also feels you have to put some fun into the game to enjoy success. He noted how he lets his team play two-handed touch and tug-of-war to take off some of the pressure.

He concluded by saying, "football players are something special. They learn the benefit of discipline. The game of football is the maker of men."

Reese, who was also presented a trophy from Attorney Edwin Krawitz, thanked the committee on behalf of the coaches for the many gifts.

"Any success this team has enjoyed this season was not a one-man job. We have an administration that has never turned down any reasonable request we made. But there is no such thing as great coaching. It takes the type of men with the mental attitude we have here at ESSC to make a winner," Reese said.

Co-captains Bob Malehorn and Gary Schoenberger gave the invocation and benediction respectively and Schoenberger also thanked the committee on behalf of the team.

The wives of the coaches were also honored with gifts. Mrs. Wilma Reese, who is never without a bag of peanuts at a game, was presented with a large plastic bag to keep the peanuts fresh.

Krawitz also read a resolution adopted by the East Stroudsburg Council commending the Warriors for their effort during the 1968 season.

Les Rossi served as master of ceremonies and introduced two key members of the program that were always in the background. They were George Little, team photographer, and Joe Catanzaro, the team statistician.

Reed leads Knickerbockers past Boston Celtics, 104-98

BOSTON (UPI)—With forward Willis Reed leading the New York Knickerbockers to a 14-point lead at the half, the Knicks held off a late game surge by Boston to down the Celtics 104-98 Wednesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Reed dumped in 19 points and snatched 12 rebounds in the first two periods to power the Knicks to a 62-48 lead at the half.

Boston came back strong in the third period and tied the score at 71-71 on a jump shot by Don Nelson with 3:40 left in the

The lead battled back and forth in the final minutes and with 1:02 remaining, reserve guard Walt Frazier scored on a basket and foul shot to put New York ahead 102-97 and the Celtics were out of contention.

Guard Sam Jones, coming in for the first time in two weeks, scored 10 points for Boston.

High scorer was Boston's Bailey Howell with 31 points. Reed and Dick Barnett each had 24 for the winners.

AP votes Morrall as MVP

NEW YORK (AP) — Earl Morrall, a 34-year-old traveling man who played quarterback for four clubs before he found a home in Baltimore, was named Wednesday the Most Valuable Player in the National Football League.

Morrall, who took the Colts to the Coastal Division title and the Western Conference final with Minnesota Sunday, was the overwhelming choice of a 48-man panel of writers and sportscasters, three from each league city, participating in the Associated Press Poll.

Two members of the committee did not vote in this category but Morrall got 33 ballots. Leroy Kelly, Cleveland running back and rushing champion, was second with five.

Bill Nelsen, Cleveland quarterback, was next with four. There was one vote each for John Mackey, Baltimore tight end; Dick Butkus, Chicago middle linebacker; Bob Lilly, Dallas defensive tackle; and Gale Sayers, injured Chicago Bear running back.

After years of playing second fiddle for other passers, Morrall came into his own with the Colts and wound up as the top passer in the final league statistics. He completed 182 of 317 for 2,909 yards, averaged 9.18 yards per pass, threw 26 touchdown passes and had 17 intercepted.

The Colts reached out for Morrall one Saturday last August during the exhibition season as insurance in case John Unitas' tennis elbow failed to come around. As No. 2 quarter back with the New York Giants behind Fran Tarkenton, the Giants had figured they could well afford to trade him. They got Butch Wilson, a reserve tight end, in return.

Shortly after his arrival in Baltimore, Morrall was thrown into action with the Colts because Unitas' reinjured the elbow in a game at Dallas.

When the season started he was No. 1 and Unitas an intent observer on the bench. It continued that way all season with Unitas making only brief appearances. Morrall led the Colts to a 13-1 record and a shot at the league and conference title and perhaps the Super Bowl.

Kelly top vote-getter on NFL all-star team

NEW YORK (UPI)—Leroy Kelly, who emerged from Jimmy Brown's shadow to become the finest runner in pro football, was a near-unanimous selection on United Press International's 1968 National Football League All-Star team.

Kelly, who won both the rushing crown and the scoring title in the NFL this season, received 47 votes in a panel of 48 NFL experts around the nation—three from each league city.

Kelly was joined in the backfield by Chicago's Gale Sayers, who made the team even though he missed the final third of the season with a knee injury, and quarterback Earl Morrall, the veteran castoff who took over for the Baltimore Colts when John Unitas was injured and replaced Unitas on the all-star squad.

Morrall was one of the five Colts who were named to the first teams on offense and defense. Cleveland and Minnesota had three players named.

Paul Warfield of Cleveland and Clifton McNeil of San Francisco were the wide receivers while John Mackey of Baltimore won the tight end spot.

The interior linemen on the squad are Ralph Neely of Dallas and Bob Vogel of Baltimore at the tackle spots; Gene Hickerson of Cleveland and Howard Mudd of San Francisco at guards and Mick Tingelhoff of Minnesota at center.

The defensive unit has Deacon Jones of Los Angeles and Carl Eller of Minnesota at the ends and Merlin Olsen of Los Angeles and Bob Lilly of Dallas at the tackles.

Dick Butkus of Chicago is the middle linebacker with Dave Robinson of Green Bay and Mike Curtis of Baltimore at the linebacking spots. Bob Boyd of Baltimore and Lem Barney of Detroit are the cornerbacks and Larry Wilson of St. Louis and Willie Wood of Green Bay are the safeties.

There were only four repeaters on the offensive team this season—Neely, Tingelhoff, Kelly and Sayers.

There were six repeaters on the defensive unit — Jones, Olsen, Lilly, Robinson, Butkus, and Wood.

Kelly, a five-year veteran from Morgan State, spent the 1964 and 1965 seasons on the Cleveland bench playing behind Jimmy Brown. But when Brown retired after the 1965 season, Kelly took over the starting job in the 1966 season and has gained over 1,000 yards in each of his three seasons as a starter.

Kelly gained 1,239 yards this season to win the rushing title for his second straight season. He also scored 120 points to win the scoring crown the first time.

Morrall bounced around four different teams before the Colts obtained him at the start of this season in a trade with the Giants for Butch Wilson. When

Sportsman of year honor to Russell

BOSTON (UPI)—Boston Celtics player-coach Bill Russell received a Grecian urn for "my kind of thing" Wednesday when he was cited as sportsman of the year by Sports Illustrated Magazine.

The veteran National Basketball Association all-star was named 1968 winner of the award succeeding Boston Red Sox star Carl Yastrzemski and following an impressive list of winners that had included only one previous basketball winner, Jerry Lucas in 1961.

He received the citation at a luncheon at the Harvard Club. Noting that the title didn't just come from points, rebounds... wins and losses... figures, Russell said he considered the award a "gift from my team" and said it was the first time he had ever received anything that he would discuss with his children.

Russell was cited both as an outstanding player and the first Negro to crack the leadership barrier in sports by the magazine's editors who noted that coaching "has been an era of sport inaccessible to black men."

The Hawks moved to within 1-2 games of NBA Western Division leader Los Angeles with the victory.

The Hawks made easy work of it in the first half and led by 16 points before the Bucks staged a third period rally that pulled them to within three points.

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Earl Morrall broke late third period tie with five straight points that led the streaking Baltimore Colts to a 100-100 victory over the San Francisco Warriors Wednesday night in a National Basketball Association game.

Monroe's spirit cracked a 72-all tie that San Francisco enjoyed after recovering from an early 14-point deficit.

Baltimore, behind board control from Gus Johnson and Wes Unseld grabbed a 34-23 first quarter lead and was ahead 60-52 at halftime.

Johnson scored 21 points and drew down 23 rebounds. Unseld had 26 retrieves and 15 points. Keven Laughery led the Bullets with 26 points.

Jeff Mullins of San Francisco led all scorers with 30 points as the Warriors played without injured center Nate Thurmond.

Britain seen due for racial trouble

LONDON (AP) — Bishop Trevor Huddleston, once a fighter against apartheid in South Africa, is convinced Britain is heading for racial trouble—possibly this winter.

"I was involved in all this to the point of near-desperation in South Africa," he says. "Now I return to find the English at the point where, in my view, things are building up dangerously."

"The forces of prejudice have been unleashed in Britain. The language of (Enoch) Powell is dangerous language, putting fear into people's hearts where none should exist. Every time Powell speaks he makes it worse. Now the immigrant groups feel desperately insecure and it's very cruel that they should be."

"I think, I feel, that we're going to have quite a battle. Have no illusions. People have got to stand up and be counted."

The 66-year-old bishop, who made a name as a Church of England missionary monk during two decades in Africa, came home six months ago from being bishop of Masasi in Tanzania.

In October he became bishop of Stepney, a tough London district near the docks with many colored people in its million population. He took up residence among his people—the first bishop of Stepney to do so—in a house at 400 Commercial Road.

Bishop Huddleston says he hopes he can be a kind of ambassador for all these disparate immigrant groups.

"I will speak out where I feel I best can to influence the situation," he said. "I'll speak to university groups especially—they're very important."

The Stepney area has had a multiracial pattern so long that the bishop is not really worried about trouble in his own diocese. His fear is that it will come elsewhere, perhaps in the north or industrial Midlands if unemployment rises this winter.

"This is a population and a housing problem rather than a color problem," he says. "After all, there's a population explosion in the world. Our share is minute compared with, say India, but we are feeling the edges of it here."

What makes him so angry with Conservative maverick Enoch Powell, who recently proposed Britain set up a repatriation ministry to send the colored people home? The bishop feels Britain is on shaky moral ground here.

"We played our part in the slave trade which created the West Indies as they are today," he said. "It was our colonial policy that persuaded the Indians and Pakistanis to go to Kenya."

"Whether we like it or not, we are absolutely responsible for this situation and we must do our share in dealing with the world population problem in a civilized—and I should hope, Christian—way."

"I'd like to see a stronger Christian reaction. The church leaders are speaking out, making all the right noises, but Christian communities should go out in a positive way to take part in integration. The church is not pulling its weight as it could."

Holes in Pike still puzzle

HARRISBURG (AP) — Turnpike officials and laboratory technicians were still mystified Monday by the strange deterioration of the roadway in two new tunnels opened on Nov. 26.

Tests are still not definitive, but officials said pockmarks have been patched and traffic is moving in alternate directions using both the old and new Kittatinny and Blue Mountain tunnels in Franklin County.

The Turnpike Commission said a meeting would be held Wednesday with laboratory technicians of the State Highways Department. Additional tests on the bituminous asphalt used in the surfacing will be run in the meantime.

The new tunnels were built at a cost of $21.9 million. The project calls for modernization of the old tunnels, with the twin tubes affording two-lane traffic in each direction. The old tunnels accommodated only one lane in each direction.

PRICES IN THIS AD EFFECTIVE THROUGH SATURDAY, DECEMBER 21, IN ALL A&P SUPER MARKETS IN STROUDSBURG AND VICINITY.

Each year, East Stroudsburg's own traditional "Mr. Santa," Louis Urban, sets up a fantastic display of his own creations reflecting the Christmas spirit. Each year he adds to the already astonishing bright sidewalk Santa-land. This year's new attractions are a giant Jack-in-the-box, left, and a doghouse. Both are made with moving parts.

Stroudsburg's 'Santa Claus' team adds seasonal displays to home

EAST STROUDSBURG — Christmas in the Stroudsburgs would not be complete without the traditional seasonal tribute of Mr. and Mrs. Louis E. Urban and their untiring efforts of bringing wonder into the eyes of children and warmth into the hearts of all that pass their magnificent sidewalk Santa-land.

The Urban home at 128 Berwick Heights Road no longer remains an ordinary residence as Christmas approaches but with dual efforts, the Urbans seem to camouflage their house and garage, lawn and parking lot and even their neighbor's lots with the most delightful, colorful arrangement of Christmas pageantry to still one's speech and set one's eyes gleaming in response.

Regular visitors don't seem to need a special invitation as they return each year with cars packed with curious children and sometimes adults, too.

After 14 years of handcrafting ornaments and displays and welcoming thousands of children as Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, the Urbans have never lost sight of changed their hearts in bringing their kind of Christmas to the community.

Actually it all started out very simply the first year with just exterior lighting around the house. But both decided they would enter the local Jaycee decorating contest the next year and ever since then started to outdo themselves in adding annually to their splendid, astonishing home-made displays.

Urban said he wanted to set an example and encourage other people to do as well.

Catching your eyes immediately will be four Christmas poles, a Santa head mounted on each, as pillars of east and west entrance and an obvious greeting spelled out on the roof of the house which is dominated by Santa, sleigh and reindeer mounts.

The entrance to the garage is actually Santa's workshop and little helpers and they really work with moving, mechanical parts. On the lawn are toy soldier-guards, Mr. and Mrs. Snowman and the latest creation a giant Jack-in-the-box, also mechanically operated.

Opposite the house is a sidewalk village, each built by Urban himself and most of them handpainted by his wife. There is a waist-high locomotive and railroad cars; a grey-horse and sleigh; a cottage with a group of carolers; Santa's post office with mailbox and church with giant bible, open-paged. This year, Urban has added a doghouse with a mechanical-minded dog, repetitiously coming out to greet visitors. The buildings usually run about six to 10 feet high.

What about the real Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus? Why do they do it?

Urban and his wife came to the Stroudsburgs some 20 years ago. He's employed by Frisbee Lumber Co. and worked at Cramer's Lumber Co. for some 17 years. Both are working people and their family includes two pet dogs.

Urban himself had taken off four weeks of his regular job to set up the decorations and creations, starting Oct. 12. But he actually starts anytime after July.

About three weeks before Christmas, and this year, Dec. 7, Mr. and Mrs. Urban formally became Mr. and Mrs. Santa Claus, and since then, every night until Christmas eve. They welcome children at their little "wonderland," greet them, talk to them and just astonish them with their devoted interest in every heart that passes by.

After the regular day's work, the host family can be found outside their home from about 6-8 p.m. and sometimes later, neglecting the temperature, passing out hundreds of candy-canes as the cars come by. They come from neighboring cities, states and even visiting foreign families from the college.

"The parents are just remarkable. I do it because I like people, especially children," Urban said in a way that sounded like Santa should. "We just gotta have it, for them and friends. It's a tradition for them and they would be disappointed if we wouldn't have it anymore."

Some 200 children were treated the first night this year. Last year, the Santa family touched the hearts of 5,000 children and adults. Urban said "even the old folks are tickled to come by and have me talk to them."

Even during the year he is greeted has "Hey, Mr. Claus" and kindness is returned in many ways, although the Urbans insist on not accepting donations as it would destroy their purpose of doing it all for its own sake.

A visit to the Urban's home during Christmas season is an experience that cannot be justified in words, only by knowing two people that recognize the best in life and have faith in their fellow man.

GE found guilty in firings

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A trial examiner for the National Labor Relations Board has

Wind Gap woman suit defendant

BASTON — A Wind Gap woman has been named defendant in a suit stemming from a motor vehicle collision in a parking lot in Bethlehem Twp., Oct. 14.

Linda L. Koehler, 46 Water St., is being sued for $250 by Lawrence C. Miller, Bethlehem. The action has been filed in Northampton County Court.

found the General Electric Co. here guilty of unfair labor practices in the firing of four employees two years ago.

Examiner Ivar Peterson ordered the company to reinstate the four workers with full back pay at 6 per cent interest. A spokesman for GE said the company was studying the verdict.

Peterson's ruling was received today by GE and John Stanley, business agent for Local 320, International Union of Electrical Workers, AFL-CIO, which represents about 7,000 GE employees.

A trial examiner's findings may be appealed to the full NLRB.

Stanley said it was the first time the Syracuse GE plant had been found guilty of unfair labor practices.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Nancy L. Bloss, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nevin H. Bloss, Jr., of 816 S. Church Street, West Chester, was elected secretary-treasurer of the Pennsylvania State College Press Assn.

The election took place during the recent annual conference of the PSCPA which was held in Shippensburg, Pa.

Miss Bloss, a sophomore Liberal Arts major at East Stroudsburg State College, is serving her second year as a member of the college paper—The Stroud Courier. She is presently the assistant business manager.

Active in other areas, Miss Bloss is a Student Senator representing the sophomore class. As a senator, she is chairman of the Capital Expenditures Committee.

Youth drowns after taking dare

TUNKHANNOCK, Pa. (AP)—The search has ended for 19-year-old Dennis Wargo, missing since Saturday in the icy waters of Meshoppen Creek.

Police said the Tunkhannock youth had gone to the creek and had jumped into its 40-foot waters on a dare. Dynamiting crews blasted through the thick ice in an effort to recover the body, but it never came to the surface.

Ferry service to be sold

HARRISBURG (AP) — A 70-year-old ferry service, still placidly transporting passengers across the Susquehanna River in the age of jet travel, is changing ownership.

The Public Utility Commission approved the sale Tuesday for $17,500. Hunter and Hadel Ferry Co., the family-owned concern which started the business in 1898, is selling out to Ferryboat Campsites, Inc. of Liverpool.

The transfer involves two gas-driven, paddle-wheel barges which play the wide river between Millersburg in Dauphin County and Crow's Ferry Landing in Perry County.

Christmas busy time on campus

EAST STROUDSBURG — In a year marked by student protests and attacks on school administrations throughout the country, East Stroudsburg State College has remained peaceful.

Perhaps, a spokesman said, it is because the active students at ESSC are too busy doing worthwhile and constructive projects rather than engaging in the destruction which seems to be prevalent today.

The Christmas season has kept many of the "activists" hard at work helping to spread the holiday message both on and off campus.

The four social fraternities and two sororities at ESSC have taken the lead in carrying Christmas to the community. The six organizations have undertaken projects designed to brighten the days of those who otherwise might not be able to enjoy them.

Alpha Chi Fraternity will be distributing food to needy families while Alpha Sigma Alpha Sorority has collected toys for the Salvation Army.

In a joint project Alpha Sigma Alpha has aided Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity in sponsoring a Christmas party at the YMCA for mentally retarded children. Sigma Pi Fraternity is holding a party for underprivileged children through the auspices of the Salvation Army.

Tau Kappa Epsilon Fraternity and Delta Phi Beta Sorority will spread the holiday cheer through the universal medium of caroling.

The Greek organizations are not the only groups at ESSC helping the Christmas cause. The Elementary Education Club has also undertaken a food drive which will be distributed to needy families throughout the boroughs.

Also, both students and faculty joined together on Sunday evening to sing carols to the patients at the Monroe County General Hospital.

On the ESSC campus many things have happened to add to the holiday atmosphere during the past two weeks.

Beginning Dec. 9, with the annual tree lighting ceremony, the Christmas season was officially opened at ESSC.

The Christmas trees, complete with all the trimmings, were set up in the dormitories to add a special brightness to the lounges.

Dec. 14 marked the social highlight of the season with the traditional Christmas Dance held on campus. The Vincent Joseph Orchestra played to the theme of "Silver Bells" for the three-hour semi-formal affair.

Celeste Rossi, the school's cafeteria manager, added his share to the holiday atmosphere by giving a Christmas dinner for the students.

Steak replaced the usual standard turkey feast on the menu. The rest of the meal included fruit cup, vegetables, salads, a choice of three types of pie a la mode, and, of course, fruit cake.

The final scheduled event at ESSC before the holiday break took place Wednesday evening in the Student Center when Wilfred Clelland and the College Choir led a Christmas carol program.

A roaring fire and an ornately decorated tree provided a warm and appropriate background for the final official gesture of good will by the student body before they returned to their homes for a two-week vacation.

Jury indicts ex-policeman

HARRISBURG (AP) — Former Police Chief C. Preston Price, who in quick succession recently was suspended without pay, resigned, then retired with a $6,000 annual pension, has been indicted Monday by the Dauphin County grand jury.

The 54-year-old former chief was indicted on five counts of larceny by employee. The case was related to an investigation of traffic ticket irregularities in the city by District Atty. LeRoy S. Zimmerman.

The investigation established there was no accounting for nearly 20,000 tickets during 1967. During June and July of this year, Zimmerman said, 12 traffic tickets with accompanying payment of fines were mailed to the police department by an auditing firm as an accounting test.

Of this number, the DA said, seven were processed normally but the tickets and money in five other instances could not be traced. Zimmerman said it was on this evidence that the five-count indictment was obtained.

EAST STROUDSBURG — Dr. Charles P. Wolbers, professor of Health and Physical Education at East Stroudsburg State College, was installed as vice-president of the Division of Men's Athletics during the recent meeting of the Pennsylvania Association of Health, Physical Education and Recreation which was held in Pittsburgh.

In addition to his professional duties at East Stroudsburg State, Dr. Wolbers is the coach of the successful nationally known men's tennis team. He is personally very active in the national youth programs and all other aspects of tennis.

As chairman of the state association's Division of Men's Athletics, Dr. Wolbers will also serve as a member of the association's executive committee.

During his tenure as vice-president-elect, the Division of Men's Athletics was reorganized into sections denoting fall, winter, and spring sports with elected chairmen for each section.

Dr. Wolbers stated that plans are presently being made to hold the 1969 convention meetings at Mount Airy Lodge in Monroe County. If successful, it would be the first time that the professional meetings were held in Northeastern Pennsylvania.

MS victims in Wyoming Valley area receive full-time assistance

BETHLEHEM — Mrs. Warren Himmelwright worked with numbers and letters during the war, as bookkeeper for Bethlehem Steel and stenographer at the Willy House in Bethlehem.

She also found time to help her husband with his cellophane-converting business and to raise their two daughters. Mary, now 20, is a medical technology major at Pennsylvania State University and Nancy, 18, is a Spanish major at East Stroudsburg State College.

But, numbers and letters grew less important as she became absorbed with the residents of Willy — youngsters whose lives depended upon judges and court decisions.

Eleanor Himmelwright observed these burdened children and decided then she would like to help others — whenever she could, however she could.

As the new patient service assistant for the Northeast Unit of the Eastern Pennsylvania Multiple Sclerosis Society, Mrs. Himmelwright is a full-time helper for "MS" patients.

Mrs. Himmelwright, of 110 Luzerne Ave., West Pittston, visits with victims of the progressive crippling who live in the Wyoming Valley area, to discover how the MS society can assist them.

She refers patients with requests to the person or agency which can serve them. This referral service previously was handled through correspondence from Philadelphia, headquarters for the 13-county MS chapter. By establishing personal contact, Mrs. Himmelwright has helped disseminate knowledge of available services.

NATO move

CASTEAU, Belgium (AP) — Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, NATO supreme commander, has completed the transfer of his headquarters from France by opening a medical center for his command near this south Belgian village. The move began in 1960 after President De Gaulle asked for withdrawal of NATO military installations from France.

Ostrich guards

GRAAFF REINET, South African (AP) — The local military rifle range was plagued by vandals until ostrich farmers, responding to an appeal from Commandant P. J. Burger, donated a pair of birds for guard duty. Male ostriches are notoriously aggressive when protecting their females.

Honesdale native to leave top steel post

NEW YORK (AP)—Roger M. Blough, chairman and chief executive officer of U.S. Steel Corp. who clashed with President Kennedy on steel price increases, announced Tuesday he will retire at the end of January. Blough is a native of Honesdale.

Airliner makes safe landing

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A small airliner with one landing gear jammed made a successful emergency landing on just two wheels Wednesday.

The two crewmen and three passengers were not hurt.

Robert H. Donald, pilot of the Altair Airlines flight from Richmond, Va., brought the plane in on the wheels on the nose and right side. As the plane lost its speed, it tipped over until the left wingtip scraped the ground and pivoted to a halt.

"I never saw such a beautiful landing," said Fire Capt. Joseph Palma, who was in one of the emergency vehicles standing by. The plane was a 15-seat Beechcraft 99 prop jet.

"There's no question about it. The guy saved our lives," said Robert A. Wells.

Colorful flow

VIENNA, Austria (AP)—The Danube in the Johann Strauss waltz is a beautiful blue and in reality it's usually various shades of greenish brown, depending on season and locality, but in Bulgaria it's something else. The official Bulgarian news agency BTA reported Communist party chief Todor Zhivkov recently announced to a student rally "the decision of the party Central Committee that the popular and patriotic song, 'The Quiet White Danube,' should become the anthem of Bulgarian student youth."

Jesus' life story told by findings

NEW YORK (AP)—Like the gradual unfolding of a mystery story, fragmentary hints and clues today are being accumulated from dusty manuscripts of the past, to illuminate the times of Jesus.

"A steady stream of material is increasing our knowledge of that period," says the Rev. Dr. Robert Northup of New York Theological Seminary. "We can expect a tide of additional material soon."

The painstakingly slow but dramatic process has been going on for about 20 years now, since the big finds of ancient documents in the dunes of Egypt in 1946 and in caves beside the Dead Sea in 1947.

However, less than half of them have been deciphered and published so far, and work now is nearing completion on the rest.

"Not much has been told about what most of these other manuscripts contain," said Dr. Northup, professor of New Testament literature and a research specialist on ancient writings of that era.

Notably, however, despite premature assumptions that the contents might undermine Christian views of Jesus, scholars say that instead the results have given new weight to the New Testament accounts.

"It has helped to make even clearer the special value and authenticity to the gospel records," Dr. Northup said, in a pre-Christmas summary of the findings about the age from which the celebration stems.

For instance, some gospel phraseology, especially in the Book of John, previously had caused many scholars to date it about a century after Jesus' death, but the usages now are found to have been common in his own day, indicating an earlier origin.

Of the Dead Sea scrolls, dated between 200 B.C. and 70 A.D., four volumes have been published so far, with six others still to be issued.

Report discloses illness on Oahu

HONOLULU (AP)—The Oahu Health Surveillance Program shows an estimated 56,700 persons, or 10 per cent of Oahu's (Honolulu) resident population, suffer from asthma or hay fever or both — the most frequent types of chronic health condition reported.

Present Suicides

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP)—The founder-head of the South African Suicide Prevention Center, formerly known as Suicides Anonymous, says his organization saved the lives of 12,000 would-be suicides in the last eight years.

Language probed

PRETORIA, South Africa (AP)—Moms of the South African Womens Federation don't like the rough language used on their sons by the army's regimental sergeant-majors. A congress of the federation drew up a motion calling on the Defense Department to investigate bad language during military training.

Let's pray

HELENA, Mont. (AP)—A passenger recently left his advice in an elevator in the Post Office Building. Under the list of instructions on what to do in case of an emergency was added, "and pray."

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you. (2-19)

Your Horoscope

By Francis Drake

March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — With your innate good judgment and clever management, you should do well now. Aim to improve your own previous record without too much or tactless pressure. A good day for broadening your mental horizons.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Plan for the advancement you anticipate by keeping up to snuff, equal to challenges and opportunities, and by capitalizing on your many talents. Be tactful with those who seem unusually sensitive, however.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Watch out for new trends, so that you may adjust quickly. It will be much easier to do some things now than others. Do not become discouraged at any point, however.

June 22 to July 21 (Cancer) — Be sure that you present yourself as you really intend and that you understand what others mean before you join their activities. Once realized, you can succeed faster.

July 24 to August 23 (Leo) — In all things, be circumspect, judge carefully, and do not let outsiders hurry or mislead you. Do not overlook the significance of details, either. Problems CAN be ironed out.

August 24 to September 23 (Virgo) — You must discount rumors now — heeding or passing them on. Stick to facts! Don't jump the gun in new ventures.

September 24 to October 23 (Libra) — Not all may work out as planned. Don't give anything up easily, however. You are equipped to cope with situations — and ably.

October 24 to November 22 (Scorpio) — When you think you are clear of doubts, and difficulties, that is when to watch more closely for pitfalls, misleads, and traps. Do not matters, stick to well-tested procedures.

November 23 to December 21 (Sagittarius) — There is always a new day and new hope, on which the truly content and usefully busy thrive. This is one of them. Don't bog down in doubt, distrust of others.

December 22 to January 20 (Capricorn) — While planetary influences are not inauspicious, there are a few areas where caution will be needed. Preparations for new ventures call for careful consideration.

January 21 to February 19 (Aquarius) — Neither be silent when opposed, nor rush to attack. Think over reasons for such conditions, how they came about. All will gain more by impartial probing.

February 20 to March 20 (Pisces) — Neither expect nor demand too much and you will be surprised at your all over returns. Avoid putting aside "musts" for nonessentials.

YOU BORN TODAY are idealistic, benevolent, a loyal friend and endowed with great integrity. You are extremely capable in anything you undertake, conscientious, and act swiftly and competently in emergencies. You are keenly perceptive and are endowed with excellent judgment; would make an outstanding business man or woman, lawyer, financier, or could succeed in any field involving dealings with the public. You have a great love for sports, the outdoors, travel and the arts. Birthdate: John Greenleaf Whittier, American poet; Sir Humphrey Davy, English chemist; Erskine Caldwell, author; Antonio Stradivari (Stradivarius), famous violin-maker.

GIFTS FOR HER — If there's an international traveler on your list, see the oversize, French purse at Zacher's, 75 Crystal Street, East Stroudsburg. This wallet-type purse is designed to hold all her travel papers; large size foreign bills and has an inside zippered "secret pocket." Also handsome and handy is a zippered bill fold and card file in Moroccan leather with an outside change purse, an excellent gift for "lady executives." If she has a warm heart and cold hands, give her fur-cuffed, silk-lined suede gloves! Zacher's also has some lovely silver jewelry. designed and made in Finland; Mary Quant stockings and pantyhose. A spray mist of L'Air du Temps is a very popular gift for her or one of the other Nina Ricci perfumes.

NOT SURE OF HER SIZE?
Gift her with a handsome Roger Van S or Cauldron handbag. Frances Burrows has a nice selection of antiqued leather, tortoise patent and rugged country type purses, in pouches, totes, box gold trimmed and leathene lined styles. Or gift her with a fur (unless this is the year she's getting a full length mink), like a stencilled pony bag, leather lined and box shape. Tuck a pretty scarf inside! You'll find many to choose from: paisleys, chiffrons, Art Nouveau, plaids, wool challis and smoke rings. Looped chain or gold coin belts are very popular and there is a nice group of bracelets and pendants, too. All these "sizeless" gifts can be found at Frances Burrows, 718 Main, behind the silver windows.

FRESH BELUGA CAVIAR
has just arrived at Nebel's Market, in time to do the Holidays in style. They also have English plum pudding, and brandied hard sauce, spiced crabapples and seared pears, Indian chutney, canned smoked salami from Denmark and sakami sticks from Belgium. For Holiday cocktails there are imported fluted patty shells in cocktail size, all types of imported cheeses, Swedish meat balls, Rose's Lime Juice, cocktail oranges and pineapple sticks, cocktail eggplant, Norwegian fish balls and pate de foie gras. Holiday entertainment should be very merry with this kind of help from 726 Main Street.

They have the only flocking machine in the area, the price is fairly reasonable...call 424-1210 for an estimate on your tree, or bring it to Plants and Design, Lenox Avenue, East Sibley (turn off No. Courtland at Erlich's Market.) If you need flocking on a special centerpiece, door swag, mantel decoration, bring this, too. Or you can bring your own container, and they will build you an outstanding piece while you wait. You can even have a old picture frame and have a beautiful wall decoration made...the sky's the limit! They also have live poinsettias in red, pink and white; live holly, and balsam or white pine wreaths. Be sure to see their collection of Christmas music boxes and a revolving one that can be used all year by changing the decoration to suit the occasion. And for a really smashing decoration, see their tinsel chandeliers!

CHRISTMAS IS EXCITING at WYCKOFF'S

Every year, you say that you'll shop earlier... but, you never do it!
With Christmas only 5 days away it's practically last-minute. Aren't you glad that there's a store like Wyckoff's near you? We've got the greatest gifts all of the time... so last-minute shoppers haven't a worry.

WHAT DO YOU BUY THE YOUNG SET?

Youngsters should be the least difficult to buy for on your shopping list! As fast as they grow they are always needing something new in clothing... check our Children's Department for fashions for boys and girls.
For warm, toasty robes in many colors, Peanuts sweat shirts featuring the wonderful comic characters, knee socks, fun books and games, cuddly toys and more.

WHAT DO YOU BUY FOR THE IN-CROWD?

Hip young things have many most wanted items on their holiday list. If you are shopping for the with-it girl then consider: a wooly knit beret in a variety of kooky colors, 3.00. Wide-legged knit pants, 12.00, to combine up with a handsome sweater or the new Barlon striped turtlenecks, 9.00. Maybe soft leather gloves at 6.00. Or a bag of softest Seton leathers, 14.00. A sure-hit, party-hose by several top lines, Bonnie Doon, Cameo and Berkshire, 1.99 to 3.50.

WHAT DO YOU BUY A MOM?

Treat mothers to more luxury at Christmas time... like beautifully boxed gift sets of Estee Lander Youth Dew cosmetics and fragrance... or fashion's new bra-slip by Nemo, 6.00.
Give a colorful square of silk twill in jewel-colored prints by Burmel, 2.00 to 5.00... and add Judith Keith's book
"I Haven't A Thing To Wear" which shows her countless ways to create a new look with scarves and hats, 3.95.
Or the woman who sews will most appreciate the Driz electric scissors, 9.00.
Check Wyckoff's for more!

WHAT DO YOU BUY A DAD?

We think you should be extra-thoughtful about the man who foots the bills (especially if he ends up paying for his own Christmas gift come January!)
The sweater collection for men has never been better at Wyckoff's, from 8.00 to 50.00. Or give him an Arrow dress shirt in white or the new lively colors, 6.00 to 10.00. And if the tie you give him is a Womby tie, he won't groan about "another tie." Or how about the suave men's cosmetic line from Estee Lander, "Aromis." Priced from 4.25 to 17.50.
